BANGLADESH'S longest-serving prime minister Sheikh Hasina on Monday resigned and fled the country amid violent protests against her government, bringing an end to her 15-year rule. The move came after around 300 people were killed in the past two weeks during clashes between protesters and security forces.

Bangladesh Army Chief General Waqar-uz-Zaman said the Army has taken over and an interim government would be formed.

According to sources, Sheikh Hasina, 76, left Dhaka on Monday afternoon on a chopper and reached Tripura's capital Agartala. From there, an Indian Air Force aircraft took her to the Hindon airbase in Ghaziabad on the outskirts of Delhi.

From Delhi, Hasina plans to reach Belarus or Finland on a chartered flight, it is learnt. However, she will stay back in Delhi for a day or two. Hasina is said to have made huge investments in Belarus.

Soon after she landed in Hindon on Monday, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval visited Hasina. Later, Doval attended a meeting of the Cabinet Committee on Security chaired by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and briefed him about the unfolding situation. The meeting was also attended by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, Home Minister Amit Shah, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar, and Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman.

Earlier in the day, unruly mobs in Bangladesh went on a rampage after news spread that Hasina resigned. Her official residence Ganabhaban, Parliament, the Supreme Court, and the offices of some media outlets were ransacked and looted. Even the police headquarters was not spared as violent mobs burned down the building, forcing the Police Commissioner to escape on a helicopter.

In view of the volatile situation, India has issued an advisory for its nationals in Bangladesh and asked them to exercise caution. Meanwhile, the BSF has beefed up patrolling around the India-Bangladesh border.

According to some political observers in Dhaka, the dramatic way with which the protests — which began as an agitation against a job quota scheme but quickly morphed into a mass movement demanding Hasina's ouster — shows the involvement of a hand, probably the US. Hasina's growing proximity to China may not have gone down well with the US, they argue. Meanwhile, reports say that some senior officials, including judges, have taken refuge in the Indian High Commission in Dhaka. P9, 11

Uncertainty rules

FIRST PERSON

ANINDO BANERJEE @ Dhaka

THE situation was turning volatile as the day began. From my accommodation in an upscale Dhaka locality, I could see thousands of youths thronging the streets since morning. They stormed Ganabhaban, the prime minister's residence, and took their spoils of war with whoops of joy.

Others projected the war outwards and took on everything that came their way, looting shops and ransacking houses — their own country became like Rome to the Vandals. The only certitude was that the regime had collapsed, otherwise uncertainty reigned. Even at the basic level of the idea of Bangladesh:

protesters were, after all, even going for the statue of its architect, 'Banga Bandhu' Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, with hammer blows.

Is history being rewritten — or even unwritten — for this small nation, no stranger as it is to juntas and assassinations? I could see a strange irony playing out: a moment of joy for a whole mass of people out there, and yet streaked through with contrary emotions like despair and doubt.

The Army chief says he has spoken to all parties, barring the deposed Awami League, and his words signal at an interim government. Yet, perhaps he too has little clarity about how events will unfold.

I have been in Dhaka — the city of mosques and muslin — for one-and-a-half years. Of late, the city has resembled a northern Indian city of the early '90s, roiled by the anti-Mandal

Market crash wipes out ₹15 lakh crore

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

MIRRORING the meltdown in key markets worldwide, India's equity markets on Monday fell sharply, wiping out investor wealth to the tune of ₹15 lakh crore. The overall market cap of the firms listed on the BSE slipped to ₹442 lakh crore from ₹457 lakh crore in the previous session.

Several factors came into play in pulling down the Indian markets. These included concerns related to an appreciating Japanese Yen and its impact on the global economy, looming fears of the US sliding into a recession, rising tensions in West Asia, and India Inc giving below-par earnings results in the June quarter.

On Monday, the BSE Sensex nose-dived 2,222 points or 2.74% to close at a month's low of 78,759.40. At one point during the session, the index plunged more than 3% to hit the day's low of 78,295.

The NSE Nifty50, too, cracked 662 points or 2.68% to settle at 24,055. It plunged as much as 3.33% to hit the day's low of 23,893. The broader market underperformed the benchmarks, with the Nifty Midcap 100 and Smallcap 100 indices falling by around 3.55% and 4.57%, respectively.

'Depressed' CCB inspector ends life

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A police inspector attached to the Economic Offences Wing (EOW) of the Central Crime Branch (CCB) allegedly ended his life in Kaggalipura police limits on the outskirts of the city on Sunday night.

The body of Thimmegowda, 53, was found hanging from a tree at a farm in Thagachaguppe near Kumbalagodu on Monday morning. Passersby, who saw the body, alerted the police. Family issues are suspected to be the reason for Thimmegowda taking the extreme step.

Thimmegowda, who hailed from Karlahalli near Channarayana, lived in a rented house in Bidadi. His family members live in Mysuru. Thimmegowda was transferred to CCB two months ago from Bidadi police station.

He was Attibele police inspector when a major fire broke out at a crackers shop on service road near the toll gate in October last year. Fifteen people died in the blaze. Thimmegowda was suspended for granting permission to renew the shop's licence. After his suspension, he is said to have slipped into depression.

A case of unnatural death has been registered by Kaggalipura police. Further investigations are on.

Nagendra, Daddal not in SIT chargesheet

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

The Special Investigation Team (SIT), which is probing the multi-crore scam in Karnataka Maharshi Valmiki Scheduled Tribes Development Corporation, filed a 3,072-page preliminary chargesheet before a city court on Monday.

The SIT, which has named 12 people as accused, has, however, not named former tribal welfare minister B Nagendra and Rai-chur Rural MLA Basanagouda Daddal, chairman of the corporation, in its chargesheet.

While Nagendra was arrested by the Enforcement Directorate, which found incriminating evidence against him related to handling of funds of the corporation found at his house and at the residences of Daddal and their acquaintances, the SIT has not made him an accused. Nagendra is now in judicial custody.

In his death note, the corporation's accounts superintendent, Chandrashekar P, had mentioned about the transfer of funds on the orders of a minister. Based on this, Nagendra and Daddal were quizzed by SIT for long hours. The SIT arrested Nekkunte Nagaraj and his brother-in-law Nageshwar Rao, both associates of Nagendra, and named them as accused in the scam.

The chargesheet was submitted before the third Additional Chief Metropolitan Magistrate (ACMM) Court. P5

PG SAFETY

Palike to check for building code violation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the brutal murder of a woman at a paying guest (PG) accommodation in Koramangala last month, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has decided to check if PGs are following the National Building Code (NBC).

This apart, the Palike is coming up with guidelines that will also include mandating PG accommodations to have security, CCTV cameras and reception like in hotels.

Speaking to reporters after a meeting with senior officials to discuss various issues, Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath said they are taking the murder of the young woman seriously.

"Guidelines will be issued to PGs to prevent such incidents from happening in the coming days. Separate guidelines are being issued for PG centres within Bengaluru and strict action will be taken if they are violated," said Girinath.

Speaking about the dengue situation, he said dengue cases are under control in Bengaluru.

As many as 600 fogging and 600 spraying machines have been deployed. He said with the help of nursing students, they are conducting house-to-house awareness visits about dengue fever.

"The city had been seeing more than 200 cases of dengue every day in the recent past. Now, this number has come down to 160 and dengue fever is under control," said Girinath.

10PM TOO LATE, STICK TO OLD TIMINGS FOR PARKS: BJP MLAs

Keeping them open from 5am to 10pm could lead to security issues, they tell DyCM

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

CITY BJP MLAs have raised objections to Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar's proposal to keep the 1,000-odd Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) parks open from 5am to 10pm, citing security reasons, among others. They have demanded that parks should be open only in the mornings and evenings.

Jayanagar MLA CK Ramamurthy, who recently led a delegation to give a representation to BBMP Chief Commissioner Tushar Girinath against the 5am to 10pm deadline for parks, said a shortage of guards and CCTVs at many parks could lead to security issues.

This apart, keeping the park open for so many hours will attract anti-social elements and hoodlums. "We have written to the BBMP Chief Commissioner and asked the Palike to stick to old rules and keep parks open only between 5am and 10am, and from 4pm to 8pm, and use the afternoon hours for maintenance," said Ramamurthy.

Echoing him, former minister and Mahalakshmi Layout MLA K Gopalaiah said contractors engaged in park maintenance may find it tough as this is almost like 24-hour work, and the present tender conditions and amount quoted in the contract may prevent them from taking up maintenance work as it will be a loss for them. At the same time, regular maintenance of parks and security will go for a toss.

"Workers have to work in three shifts. Cleaning and maintenance will become an additional burden if parks are allowed to remain open throughout the day. Besides, illegal activities will take place. In my assembly, there are 53 parks. Dr Shivakumarswamiji Park, Kempe Gowda Park, Navanandini, Swami Vivekananda Park and Dr Balagangadharanatha Swamiji Park do not get a single rupee for maintenance. Rs 10 crore given by the government is only for manure and water, and doesn't cover regular maintenance. Instead of a change in park timings, the government should give more funds to maintain the lung space," Gopalaiah said.

Seven locations identified for city's second airport

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

INDUSTRIES Minister MB Patil said seven locations have been identified for the proposed second airport in Bengaluru and a meeting will be held with Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday to discuss submitting an application to the Airports Authority of India (AAI).

Patil and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar held a meeting to discuss the second airport with IDECK [Infrastructure Development Corporation (Karnataka) Limited] and Boston Consultancy Group on Monday. Visual presentations prepared by both entities were reviewed during the meeting.

Speaking to reporters after the meeting, Patil said initially IDECK had identified nine potential sites for the airport, but two were dropped due to non-feasibility. "We will submit the application to the AAI, detailing all seven identified locations. AAI officials will then visit the sites to assess feasibility. The final decision will be based on factors such as passenger density, connectivity, industrial growth, cargo potential and environmental considerations like the presence of rivers, hills and biodiversity," Patil noted.

Emphasising that the decision on the location will not be based on political considerations, the minister said it will be guided by approximately 15 parameters set by the AAI as well as the overall development of Karnataka, including Bengaluru.

Shivakumar stated that Patil has already held several rounds of meetings with various stakeholders regarding the construction of the second airport for Bengaluru. The government aims to complete the second airport by 2033, he added.

Advocate General Shashikiran Shetty, Finance Department Additional Chief Secretary LK Atheeg, Urban Development Department ACS Umashankar, Infrastructure Development Secretary Manjula, and other officials were present at the meeting.

NAAC to give leeway to rural edu institutions seeking accreditation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TO mainstream 58% of higher education institutions (HEIs) based out of rural and remote areas that also have a relatively low gross enrolment ratio (GER) in the country, the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) is looking at lowering the metric score for such institutions.

While newly formed parameters such as input, process, quality and output will stay the same, only during the first binary accreditation cycle will HEIs be allowed some leeway, said NAAC Director Ganesan Kannabiran. Soon, the government is also aiming to give accreditation to all institutions and make it compulsory.

Sixty participants from across the country at a workshop organised by NAAC in Bengaluru on Monday | SHAHIDHAR BYRAPPA

He was speaking on the sidelines of a workshop organised by the council in Bengaluru on Monday. As many as 60 participants from higher education institutions across 28 states and eight Union territories participated in the workshop that focussed on the binary accreditation framework (BAF) proposed by the Dr Radhakrishnan committee.

"The council has decided to be sensitive to the requirements of institutions in rural and remote areas. We are holding these workshops to understand their challenges. So far, we understand that HEIs in such areas lack access to good faculty members, poor infrastructure, access to technology and no scope for collaborations or internships for students," said Kannabiran.

He added that to mainstream these institutes, NAAC has also proposed appointment of mentors to handhold them through the processes and help them attain the qualities required for binary and maturity-based accreditation.

"We have created a new attribute called 'situatedness' -- the challenges they face, the plan to overcome them and over a period they will be evaluated on those measures taken," the NAAC director said.

The fee charged under the new methodology will be relatively low compared to the current figures and will further be reduced for HEIs based in rural and remote areas, Kannabiran said.

NEW FRAMEWORK BY SEPT-END: NAAC DIRECTOR

Bengaluru: The National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) currently has 1,900 applications pending for accreditation and has stopped accepting any new applications from June 30. With plans for implementation of the new accreditation system, NAAC Director Ganesan Kannabiran on Monday said institutes have been given the option to either opt for the old grading system, or choose the new binary accreditation. "So far, 100 institutes from the list have chosen to go with the new system. We are anticipating that once the entire methodology is out more will choose the binary accreditation," he said. He added that the old system -- Revised Assessment and Accreditation Framework (RAAF) -- was plagued with inconsistencies and while the council has tried to address them, it lacks heterogeneity. "The new framework will be launched by the end of September for all those that don't have accreditation. The maturity levels will be introduced only after a gap of 6 to 8 months post binary accreditation," Kannabiran said. He explained that those institutions already with a valid NAAC accreditation can directly apply for maturity levels when they are announced. The council also claimed that due to vigilance and reassessment of many submissions, institutions securing A++ and A+ grading have considerably dropped in the last six months. A 24/7 helpdesk will be launched to help colleges and universities with accreditation queries. A series of online modules will be available on the new methodology for easy adoption, the NAAC director said. ENS 06th August: I was just reading an article about research into the horoscopes of serial killers. It seems there really might be an astrological connection, maybe a link with the Moon. Perhaps we could stop murderers before they commit any crimes! Or is that too much like science fiction?

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)

With Venus, Mars, Mercury and Pluto all now involved in a significant series of planetary pictures, you must think ahead and see that your finances are in perfect condition. You should seek all the safe-guards, guarantees and warranties that you need.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)

It's a day to take hard decisions, especially inasmuch as your health, work, or legal situation are concerned. This is a time for self-discipline, consistency and a determination to achieve the best. The more you believe that the best is possible, the more likely it is to come about.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

You have the benevolent planet Jupiter to thank for the fact that, if you do what is expected of you, the professional and financial benefits could be quite extraordinary. Keep partners informed, though, for they have a right to know exactly what is happening.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

The long-term prospects are profoundly romantic and therefore ideally suited to your astrological character. Today you must lay down a firm programme for putting your domestic dreams into practice. Make lists of what you have to do next. And then stick to your plans like glue.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)

You may be expected to dig deep into your resources, yet you will not begrudge money spent on friends, or even strangers, who are worse off than you. This is no time to carp or criticise. In fact, it's an ideal moment for offering unqualified support.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

Mercury, a planet with a mischievous reputation, is stirring up a fair bit of trouble in the heavens, although there is no need to worry that broken plans or delayed meetings will prove too costly. Yet you can rely on partners' ability to reveal the truth over the next few days.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

You often balance the books by a bit of fancy creative accounting, robbing Peter to pay Paul, a strategy which has worked well in the past but may soon come unstuck. You must deal with long-term structural defects in your financial situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)

For too long you've put on a brave face. However, you will begin to find it increasingly possible to let off steam, perhaps surprising other people with your forthright emotions. You will also be able to put a partner straight over an unresolved misunderstanding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)

Whereas part-ners are bound to be concerned with their personal interests, you are turning your attention to more public ambitions. You have a wish, which must be satisfied, to have your achievements recognised by your peers. But how can you ensure that they notice you? That's the question you'll be answering over the next month.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

Current planetary activity, specifically the uncertain relationship between Mercury and Saturn, is now forcing you to take things at a slower pace and come to terms with various unexpected developments that have taken place over the past year.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

You're not always your own best friend, and so often you have cut off your nose to spite your face. The approaching danger at work is that you will repeat the mistakes of the past, risking a confrontation that will harm your interests.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar. 20)

Give yourself the opportunity to travel or take a break. There must be some way you can abandon one or two routine commitments, even for a few days, as long as partners are prepared to step into the breach. There will always be someone who is ready to help out.

NIA takes 2 accused to cafe, reconstructs crime scene

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE bomber arrested in the Rameshwaram Cafe blast case was brought to the outlet in the city on Monday by NIA sleuths for an inspection and to reconstruct the crime scene.

Bomber Mussavir Hussain Shazib and Abdul Matheen Taaha, the alleged mastermind behind the blast, were brought to the cafe amid tight security in the morning.

Shazib was made to wear a dress similar to the one he wore while planting the low-intensity Improvised Explosive Device (IED) in the cafe. He was also made to wear a cap, mask and a backpack. He was asked to do what he did in the cafe on the day of the blast. All these were video recorded by NIA sleuths.

Monday's video and the CCTV footage and other visuals that were recovered from the cafe and other places after the blast will be sent to FSL for a gait analysis. The analysis will ascertain if the person in both videos are the same and this will be a key evidence in the case.

Shazib and Taaha were arrested near Kolkata on April 12. Five terror suspects have been arrested in the case.

The blast took place on Friday (March 1) around 12.55 pm in the cafe at Kundalahalli in the city. Ten people were injured in the blast. The case was initially probed by Assistant Commissioner of Police (CCB) Naveen Kulkarni and transferred to NIA on March 4.

The bomber entered the cafe at 11.34 am. After having rava idlis, he placed the backpack containing the bomb near the wash basin area and left at 11.43 am.

The CCTV footage recovered shows Shazib entering the cafe, carrying a packed backpack. However, while leaving the cafe he is seen carrying an empty backpack. This, presumably after planting the bomb in the cafe. During his brief stay in the cafe, Shazib is seen frequently checking his cellphone, making and attending calls.

Struggling to adapt, nursing student jumps from 6th floor

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 19-year-old nursing student, who was reportedly struggling to adapt to her college environment and peer interactions, died by suicide after jumping from the sixth floor of the hostel building on Sunday. The incident took place at Dhanvantari Nursing College at Chikkabanavara in Soladevanahalli police station limits.

The deceased, Atulya G, hailing of Kerala, was studying first-year BSc in nursing. She had enrolled in the nursing program just a month and a half ago.

Police said that at 3 pm on Sunday, Atulya was standing at the corner on the sixth-floor terrace of the hostel building, and her friends warned her to get back. Around 15 other students were there on the terrace when Atulya jumped from the building. "After questioning her parents, we found that she had urged her parents to let her return to Kerala and continue her studies there. However, her parents forced her to stay, explaining that it would take time for her to adjust," the police said, adding that they are analyzing call details and other information. The police have registered a case of unnatural death.

Cab driver molests morning walker, held

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Konanakunte police arrested a cab driver who allegedly harassed and molested a woman who went for a morning walk. The incident happened near Kothanur Dinne on August 2.

The accused has been identified as Suresh (25), a resident of Kothanur Dinne. The complainant initially hadn't approached the police, but filed a complaint on Sunday evening. The incident was caught on CCTV footage, and the video went viral on social media.

The police said that the woman had been going for a walk for the last two years. Suresh, who was returning home around 5 am, accosted the woman, who was waiting for a neighbour to join her and misbehaved with her. After she started screaming, he fled the scene. After analyzing the CCTV footage, he was arrested on Monday afternoon.

Bowring to transform into a multi-speciality hospital

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

IN a bid to alleviate the burden on other government hospitals and improve healthcare accessibility, Medical Education Minister Dr Sharan Prakash Patil announced that the new super speciality hospital, set to replace the existing Bowring Hospital in Shivajinagar, will offer a comprehensive range of treatments, including cardiology, neurology, and plastic surgery. Dr Patil made the announcement during his visit to Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee Medical College and Research Institute (Bowring Hospital) on Monday. "These facilities are being introduced in Shivajinagar as it is a densely populated area, and with the multi-specialty institution in place, the residents would be able to access quality healthcare without needing to travel far," he said.

Dr Patil mentioned that Below Poverty Line (BPL) card holders will receive healthcare for free and highlighted plans about the upcoming ten-storey super speciality facility. He also inspected the dengue ward during which he interacted with the patients, and inquired about their treatment and the hospital's facilities.

Addressing the media after his visit, Dr Patil stressed that the hospital will be opened soon. "I visited 500-bed facility in the Bowring Hospital and also gathered all required information about the super speciality hospital. The yet to open facility will significantly help all, specifically the poor and middle-class, and all kinds of treatment will be made available," Dr Patil said and further highlighted that discussions are ongoing with directors of reputed hospitals to ensure the provision of quality healthcare.

Dr Patil also highlighted that Charaka Superspeciality Hospital, which has been closed for over two years and previously served as a COVID-19 center, is set to reopen in a month. The facility, constructed by the BBMP and a part of Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee Medical College, will now offer a range of superspecialty services.

After inspecting Bowring Hospital, Dr Patil also visited Russel Market and surrounding areas, along with Shivajinagar MLA Rizwan Arshad and a team of senior doctors.

Dengue: Search up for doctors, pest control

ENS @ Bengaluru

A recent study reported a significant surge in consumer searches related to dengue testing and treatment services, reflecting the ongoing struggle with a severe dengue outbreak. Data comparing April-June 2024 to January-March 2024 showed a 33 per cent increase in queries for dengue-related services, and a 20 per cent rise in demand for doctors specialising in dengue treatment. The study, conducted by Justdial, highlighted the dengue outbreak that hit several states hard, including Karnataka, where cases have touched alarming numbers.

In response to the mosquito menace, the study reflected a notable rise in searches for pest control services, which grew by 24% across India. Metro cities saw a 25% increase, while non-metro areas experienced a 24% rise. The demand for pest control services targeting other pests also surged, with searches for lizard control up by 183%, honeybee control by 90%, bedbug control by 44%, and snake control by 33%.

As per the findings, searches for mosquito net dealers surged by 64% nationwide. Bengaluru stood at fourth, after Delhi, Pune and Ahmedabad, with a 122% rise in these searches.

The study, through these trends, highlighted the critical need for preventive measures such as maintaining clean surroundings, using mosquito repellents and seeking prompt medical attention.

Abraham visits MUDA, wants sites taken back

ENS @ Mysuru

ACTIVIST TJ Abraham, who has sought Karnataka Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot's permission to prosecute Chief Minister Siddaramaiah in the alleged scam in MUDA, visited the civic agency's office on Monday and held discussion with its commissioner AN Raghunandan on allotment of sites. Abraham said that he appealed to the commissioner to withdraw the 14 sites allotted to Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathi, citing irregularities in allotting alternative sites under the 50:50 scheme. Abraham said that he has submitted all the documents to the Governor who has issued a show-cause notice to the CM. "I hope that the Governor will give consent for prosecution," he said.

"The issue was discussed in the cabinet for more than 3 hours. Not one minister in the meeting claimed that the documents that I had submitted to the Governor were wrong. If Siddaramaiah believes that he has not done anything wrong, then why should he fear the law? The CM had called me a blackmailer, which I will reply legally," he said, adding that Siddaramaiah had appreciated him when he had made corruption charges against former CMs Jagadish Shettar and BS Yediyurappa.

"I am being abused on troll pages. This shows Siddaramaiah has accepted his defeat by targeting me. In 2004, Siddaramaiah's brother-in-law, Mallikharjunaswamy, had purchased the land in Kesare as agricultural land. In 2001 itself, MUDA developed a layout in the land, so how can Swamy purchase it as agricultural land? When Parvathi got the 14 sites, Yathindra was in the MUDA meeting. MUDA has suffered a loss of Rs 55 crore. Let MUDA give the sites to beneficiaries," he said.

BSY, HDK SHARPEN ATTACK, SAY END OF ROAD FOR SIDDU

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru:

UNION Minister of Steel and Heavy Industries HD Kumaraswamy on Monday predicted that the Congress government will soon be counting its days, while former chief minister BS Yediyurappa insisted that Chief Minister Siddaramaiah put in his papers.

The alliance leaders, taking part in the BJP-JDS 'Mysuru Chalo' padayatra to demand Siddaramaiah's resignation over his alleged involvement in the allotment of 14 sites to his wife Parvathi by Mysore Urban Development Authority (MUDA), entered Ramanagara on the third day.

Kumaraswamy and Yediyurappa stepped up their high-decibel attack against the government. "The Congress government is corrupt and its fall is imminent. I am no astrologer but Congress leaders will themselves bring down the government," predicted Kumaraswamy. He took a jibe at Siddaramaiah, saying he has taken the help of cabinet colleagues and central leaders KC Venugopal and Randeep Singh Surjewala, who came from New Delhi to rescue him. "Our padayatra is historic and our relationship with JDS is eternal. We will form an alliance government by winning 150 seats during the next polls, for which we need people's blessings," Yediyurappa said. "By the time the padayatra reaches Mysuru, Siddaramaiah must resign, at least on seeing the huge support of 'janatha janardhana' (the people) and thousands joining the padayatra. The Congress high command should make him resign."

"No CM in the state's history has taken 14 sites in his wife's name. The poor have no sites and jobs, and irrigation projects are at a standstill. Siddaramaiah has admitted that his wife was allotted sites in an upscale layout in Vijayanagar in Mysuru, and will return them if he is given Rs 60 crore in compensation. In Mysuru, over 2 lakh people will gather when the padayatra ends, and if you (Siddaramaiah) have any self-respect, resign from your post," Yediyurappa thundered.

He claimed that corruption has skyrocketed, with two police officers falling victim to the Congress government's demands for Rs 30-40 lakh for a transfer.

'Law of land sent BSY to jail'

Hitting out at DyCM DK Shivakumar, who alleged that Kumaraswamy had sent Yediyurappa to jail in a land denotification case, Kumaraswamy attributed it to circumstances, and the law of the country. "I didn't send Yediyurappa to jail, the law of the land decides who will go to jail," he said. Responding to Shivakumar, who warned that he would expose the massive wealth amassed by Kumaraswamy and his family, the JDS leader said he has volumes on Shivakumar's misdeeds.

Guv to consult legal, constitutional experts on sanction to prosecute CM

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

GOVERNOR Thawar Chand Gehlot is likely to consult legal and constitutional experts before deciding on a petition seeking permission to prosecute Chief Minister Siddaramaiah in the MUDA case. Gehlot, who was in New Delhi, returned to Bengaluru on Monday.

The consultation with experts is to avoid criticism from any quarters, sources said. He is said to have held discussions with experts, while he was in Delhi, on the legal and political ramifications. He may wait till the monsoon session of Parliament gets over before taking any decision, as it could allow the opposition to target the BJP government at the Centre, observed analysts. Within Congress, the high command consulted party leader and senior counsel in the Supreme Court Abhishek Manu Singhvi on the issue, sources said.

Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara hoped that the governor would take the advice of the council of ministers' resolution passed on August 1 to withdraw the show-cause notice issued to Siddaramaiah and reject the petition filed by social activist TJ Abraham, seeking the sanction for prosecution.

CM's supporters up in arms

Anticipating that the developments could be adverse to Siddaramaiah, his supporters have launched a campaign against the governor.

A group of AHINDA (Kannada acronym for Minorities, Backward Classes and Dalits) members on Monday submitted a memorandum to the governor's office, urging him not to give sanction to prosecute Siddaramaiah as there is no evidence against the chief minister.

In Tumakuru, hundreds of Kuruba community members took out a procession and presented a memorandum to the deputy commissioner. They warned that a big protest rally will be held against the governor if he gives sanction.

Rallies turn personal fight for DKS, HDK

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

THE BJP-JDS padayatra, demanding the resignation of CM Siddaramaiah for his alleged involvement in the MUDA and Valmiki scams, and Congress' Janandolana rally to counter the NDA partners' protest has turned into a personal fight between Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar and Union Minister for Steel HD Kumaraswamy to establish supremacy in the Vokkaliga heartland.

Shivakumar is still to recover from the political wounds inflicted by the defeat of his brother DK Suresh against HD Kumaraswamy's brother-in-law Dr CN Manjunath, Kumaraswamy's victory by a huge margin and the loss of Congress Vokkaliga candidates in eight constituencies. For Shivakumar, that humiliation is the drive to turn the ongoing agitation into a prestigious one against the Deve Gowda family and to regain the lost ground among Vokkaligas.

It was during the 2023 Assembly elections that Shivakumar had managed to win over Vokkaliga voters, convincing them that he could become a chief minister. The Janandolana is a more pointed effort to win back the community that has distanced itself from the Grand Old Party and his leadership during the Lok Sabha polls.

As the rally entered Maddur taluk in Mandya district, the attacks turned more personal between the two political bigwigs. The fight has now pushed the actual issue of the padayatra and Janandolana into the background.

Shivakumar said the BJP-JDS padayatra is being taken out with an ulterior motive of tarnishing the image of the CM and his family for not fault of theirs, and to destabilise the elected Congress government, he added.

He said BJP leaders BY Vijayendra and Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka, who are leading the padayatra, should first answer questions raised by Congress over corruption charges in the previous BJP government. The charges include the Rs 47 crore scam in APMC, Rs 87 crore scandal in Bovi Development Corporation, misappropriation of Rs 50 crore in Devaraj Urs Truck Terminal, Rs 430 crore in Ganga Kalyana scheme, anomalies in the procurement of essentials during Covid, the PSI exam, and others, which total to Rs700 crore, he said.

"Kumaraswamy should back his allegation and come out with details of benami properties owned by me," he said.

He, however, said the government will welcome and extend all cooperation if Kumaraswamy sets up industries in Mandya and generates employment for 10,000 people.

On Kumaraswamy's statement that the state government will not last more than 10 months, he said the British could not weaken Congress and the Congress government is not a pot to break.

Another BJP padayatra? Likely in Ballari over Valmiki row

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

AFTER targeting the Congress and CM Siddaramaiah over the alleged scam in MUDA by taking out a padayatra from Bengaluru to Mysuru, the BJP is likely to take out another mega rally, this time in North Karnataka. According to informed sources, this rally is likely to be held in the next few weeks in Ballari and will highlight the alleged irregularities in the Maharshi Valmiki ST Development Corporation Limited.

BJP leader B Sriramulu said that the party is keen to hold another padayatra in the Ballari region. "We want it from Bidar to Ballari or from Ballari to Chitradurga. We will consult with our party leaders in Delhi and also state core-committee leaders before finalising it," he said. According to Sriramulu, there are many issues pertaining to the Kalyana Karnataka region, including the recent PSI Parashuram suicide case in Yadgir. "The State Government has misused over Rs

SIDDU SAYS WILL FIGHT BOTH LEGALLY & POLITICALLY

BELAGAVI: CM Siddaramaiah said that his government will fight, both legally and politically, if the Governor fails to withdraw the show-cause notice issued to him, besides rejecting the petition filed by activist TJ Abraham seeking his (CM's) prosecution in the MUDA site allotment issue. Speaking at Belagavi airport, he said the government will wriggle out of the crisis which has cropped up due to the MUDA issue.

25,000 crore meant for SCs/STs. We will raise this issue for the m to get justice," he said.

According to a BJP insider, the party is gaining traction owing to the Bengaluru-Mysuru padayatra. "A padayatra on the Bengaluru-Mysuru highway is helping the BJP to become stronger in Old Mysuru. A similar padayatra in Kalyana Karnataka will help the BJP, as we did not perform to our expectations in the region in the recent Lok Sabha elections," the source added.

BJP leader and MLC Ravikumar claimed that the Mysuru Chalo padayatra is putting pressure on the Congress leaders. "It is likely to divide the Grand Old Party further, and destabilise the government. By the end of the Bengaluru-Mysuru padayatra, there will be more chaos in the Congress. The State Government does not have money either, and a section of MLAs are also unhappy about not getting MLA grants. This is expected to explode further," Ravikumar added.

After landslides, govt to relook at Kasturirangan report on W Ghats

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AFTER the devastating landslides near Shirur in Uttara Kannada district and Wayanad in Kerala, the Karnataka government has decided to relook at the Kasturirangan report on Western Ghats. The government rejected the report in 2015. The government, however, ruled out its complete implementation.

Karnataka Forest, Environment, and Ecology Minister Eshwar B Khandre said, "We must learn lessons from Wayanad and Shirur. To ensure that such incidents do not reoccur, the government will relook at the implementation of the Kasturirangan report. The Cabinet will take a decision if a re-survey for implementing the report is needed, as the last report submitted by the Sanjay Kumar Committee was in 2012, and in 2015 it was rejected after a cabinet decision." Khandre was speaking to the media on the sidelines of the announcement of the international conference on human-elephant conflict management 2024 to be held in the city on August 12.

The Madhav Gadgil and the Kasturirangan reports are before the government, and they will be looked into, he said.

On the implementation of the eco-sensitive zones, recently announced by the Union Government, Khandre said that he alone cannot take a stand and it is for the cabinet to decide. "It is my personal opinion that those who have occupied less than 3 acres of forest land should not be disturbed. However, the final decision rests with the CM and the cabinet," he said, adding that Kerala had decided to implement the recommendations of the Kasturirangan report, yet landslides happened. He also said that 25% of forest areas are untouched, and citizens have a problem with the remaining 75% of forest area, most of which is being used by people, directly or indirectly. Also, 20,668 sq km of forest land is declared an eco-sensitive zone, and 1,533 village forest committees are well aware of the Kasturirangan report.

Khandre also said that from 2012 till now, encroachments have increased, and the number of cases before the courts has also increased. As per initial reports, close to 2 lakh acres of forest are encroached.

He said notices are being issued to encroachers, but they are approaching courts. Over 1 lakh appeals have been made before various courts against the forest department for encroachment clearance, he said, adding that 95% of them have been rejected and notices have been given. Over 7,000 acres of land have to be recovered and over Rs 1,000 crore penalty yet to be obtained. Court hearings are also on, he said.

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

FOR the smooth continuation of the Gruha Jyothi scheme, the state exchequer has transferred Rs 8,844 crore into the accounts of six electricity supply companies (Escoms) in the state.

This is the amount the government is paying for zero bills under the Gruha Jyothi scheme.

As per the energy department data, 1,70,90,681 consumers have enrolled for the scheme, of which the zero-bill benefit is being extended to 1.602 crore. Energy Minister KJ George took to social media

MLA slams govt for giving state vehicle to religious leader

BENGALURU: Senior BJP leader and MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal has questioned the State Government for providing a government car to a religious leader. "Why is a person who is not related to the Government travelling in a G series car along with police security and protocol. Is this not a breach of rules and protocol. The government is trying to provide benefits and facilities for a religious leader with an eye on minority votes. This is not only against rules but also a colossal waste of the taxpayer's money. This at a time when the state is reeling under the fury of rains," the BJP leader tweeted. Many took to the social media platform to question the Siddaramaiah government.

GOVT CLEARS ₹8,844 CR GRUHA JYOTHI BILL to announce one year of the scheme, saying 1.65 crore families get zero bills.

"The amount has been cleared till July-end. For this month, it will be cleared by August 10 or 15. The government is not keeping any bills pending as revenue, profit and loss audit is strictly scrutinised by the Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission," sources said.

A department official, requesting anonymity, said there is an increase in demand for power. But it cannot be concluded whether it is because of Gruha Jyothi. There is, however, a need to reduce the bills being paid by the state exchequer to Escoms as the returns are not at the optimum levels.

He added that while there is no discussion to either reduce or increase the free unit limit (from 200 units to 300 units), deliberation is on to reduce the number of people availing the scheme. The government is thinking that those rejected for the scheme are not permitted in the future too, the source said.

The highest number of scheme beneficiaries are in Bescom limits - 71,63,455, followed by Hescom (Hubballi-Dharwad) - 35,15,314. The highest percentage of defaulters are in Hescom limits at 95.88%, followed by Gescom (Kalaburagi) at 93.02%, followed by Hukkeri Rural Electric Cooperative Society - Belagavi at 88.12%, Mescom (Mangaluru) at 87.26%, CESC (Mysuru) 83.88% and Bescom 77.59%.

WAYANAD LANDSLIDE

Survivors battle grief, uncertainty at relief camps

889 people rescued, housed in 8 relief camps

ARUN M @ Chooralmala (Wayanad)

WITH the search operations in Chooralmala and Mundakkai villages in the final phase, rehabilitation of those affected by the catastrophic landslides is the major challenge ahead for the authorities.

Currently, 889 people -- from 274 families -- who were rescued or evacuated from the disaster-stricken areas are housed in eight relief camps in Meppadi. Though the state government has announced plans to establish a township in a secure area for those affected, identifying suitable land for the purpose could well prove to be a daunting task.

Meanwhile, even a week after the tragedy, confusion prevails on the exact number of deceased, though official records put the toll at 226. Around 200 people are still missing. Also, the exact loss and extent of the disaster are yet to be estimated.

The search teams recovered six more bodies from the Vellarmala village office area and near the Punnapuzha river in Chooralmala.

On Monday, more unidentified bodies and body parts were buried at the mass burial site at a 64-cent land in Puthumala, following prayers of all religions. As many as 30 unclaimed bodies and 154 body parts were buried on the day. Each body and body part was buried in separate pits, with DNA identification numbers marked on top of the graves.

Finance Minister KN Balagopal, who visited the landslide-hit areas in Chooralmala, told reporters that the state government will implement a comprehensive package to rehabilitate the victims. "The necessary land, housing and infrastructure for rehabilitation will be provided as soon as possible. It's heartening to see substantial aid pouring in from across the country," he said.

The government has entrusted land revenue joint commissioner and former Wayanad district collector A Geetha with the task of finding suitable land for rehabilitating the survivors. Many organisations and individuals have also expressed willingness to help.

30 unclaimed bodies, 154 body parts buried

30 unidentified bodies and 154 body parts were buried at the burial ground set up at Puthumala Harrison Malayalam Estate after prayers and last rites of all religions. This includes the bodies of 14 women and 13 men. All three bodies, which could not be identified as male or female, were also buried. The bodies were buried after conducting scientific examination to identify the dead bodies. So far 83 blood samples have been collected for DNA tests. Officers said the graves will be marked based on the identification number allotted to each body.

6 more bodies found, 181 body parts recovered

On the seventh day of the search operations, six bodies were recovered on Monday. Two bodies were found in the search carried out by a team of 110 people in Vellarmala the village office area while a team consisting of 101 members of the forest department and the fire and rescue service found three dead bodies in the search of the forest in the foothills of the Punnapuzha river. So far, rescue workers have recovered 150 bodies from Wayanad area and 76 from Nilambur. A total of 181 body parts have been recovered so far, including 24 from Wayanad and 157 from Nilambur.

Chooralmala tourism industry takes a hit

Mundakkai: The glass bridge projects at '900 Kandi' and Attamala, the latter near the famous Soochipara waterfalls, had raised Chooralmala's hopes of becoming an integral part of Wayanad tourism. Residents of the picturesque town had high expectations of increased revenue generation. However, the landslides have torpedoed the plans as the entire village has been wiped out. Many are now staring at bleak futures, burdened as they are with repaying the loans availed for small businesses and jobs. "The government should implement a programme to secure the future of the survivors," said a resident.

Kerala orphanage control board to protect affected children

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kozhikode

THE State Orphanage Control Board has come forward to address the tragic aftermath of the recent landslides in the Chooralmala and Mundakkai areas of Wayanad, which have left several children orphaned and in urgent need of care and support.

During a press conference in Kozhikode on Monday, the board said that a significant number of children have lost their parents in the landslides that occurred last week and are now facing an uncertain future.

State Orphanage Control Board chairperson N Ali Abdullah expressed deep sorrow over the tragic events and emphasised the urgent need for coordinated efforts to support these vulnerable children. "Our hearts go out to the children who have lost their families in this devastating landslide. It is our collective responsibility to ensure their safety, well-being, and future," she said. The board revealed that immediate steps are being taken to provide shelter, food, and psychological support to the affected children. Educational support will also be provided to these children.

Besides Wayanad, the board will extend its services to other regions where people have suffered similar damages. People from all religious backgrounds will have the opportunity to choose institutions aligned with their faith.

In a press statement issued here on Monday, Prof. Biradar has stated that some untoward incidents like theft of computers from the Department of Computer Science, projectors from Department of Economics, Department of Commerce and Business Studies, life threats by outsiders to workers working at the construction site inside the university campus have been reported at CUK.

Consequently, rules and procedures are put in place to tighten the security at the main gate to ensure the safety and security of students and staff, and create a peaceful academic environment on the campus.

"Former student of CUK, Nandkumar, has filed a false atrocity case against CUK Vice Chancellor, Registrar and Security Officer at Narona Police Station on August 1, 2024. The university has never discriminated against him on caste basis, instead he has misbehaved with the university security staff, blocked the university main gate and disturbed the working of the university," Prof. Biradar alleged. About the incident which took place on August 1, Prof. Biradar said that at about 12 pm on August 1, Nandkumar came to the university main gate and tried to enter the university campus.

Need funds, ideas for human-jumbo conflict mitigation, says Khandre

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FOREST, Environment and Ecology Minister Eshwar B Khandre on Monday said cases of man- elephant conflict are on the rise, and besides more barricading to mitigate it, more ideas and initiatives are required.

He was speaking to the media while announcing that the first-ever international conference on human-elephant conflict management would be held in the city on the occasion of World Elephant Day, on August 12.

Khandre said there is a need to extend rail barricading for 250km more. "We have asked the Central government to give us CAMPA funds, but it is yet to be cleared. One kilometre of rail barricade costs Rs 1.65 crore," he said.

As per the last census report, Karnataka is home to 6,395 elephants. On an average, 30 people die every year in the state in elephant attacks. Also, 283 elephants have died in Karnataka in the past three years -- of these, 30 died due to electrocution and six due to poaching.

Khandre said elephant-proof trenches, tentacle fencing, solar fences and other methods are being adopted to mitigate conflict. Elephant task forces and rapid response teams have been set up in districts where conflicts are on the rise.

The conference is being held to get the best ideas and practices from the globe. He also pointed out that of the 43,283.76sqkm forest area in Karnataka, 11,318.35sqkm is protected area.

Speaking on details of the conference, Khandre said that so far, 920 participants, national and international, will participate in the event. The participants are from 15 states and Union territories, and 19 countries, including Canada, Japan, Germany, Portugal, UK, Indonesia, Thailand and Sri Lanka.

The five key themes of the conference are 'Understanding and Addressing the Drivers of Human-Elephant Conflict', 'Cross-sectoral Collaboration and Community Participation in Conflict Mitigation', 'Leveraging Technology for Conflict Mitigation and Coexistence', 'Safe Handling Protocols for Humans and Elephants During Conflict' and 'Role of Effective Communication in Human-Elephant Conflict Management'.

SIT probes 8 cases in connection with scam

DURING investigation, the SIT seized cash, gold, and other valuables from the accused. The seizure included Rs 16 crore in cash, 16.25 kg of gold worth Rs 11 crore, and two luxury cars worth Rs 4.51 crore. A sum of Rs 12 crore in various bank accounts was frozen.

While the SIT is probing eight cases registered in connection with the scam, the chargesheet pertains to a case registered with High Grounds police under IPC Sections 409 (criminal breach of trust by public servants, bankers, etc.), 420 (cheating), 467 (forgery), 468 (forgery for the purpose of cheating), 471 (fraudulently or dishonestly using as genuine any document which he knows or has reason to believe to be a forged document), and 149 (unlawful assembly with a common object).

The case, which led to the resignation of Nagendra, was transferred to CID by the state government.

The case is also being probed by the CBI and ED. The alleged transfer of Rs 89.62 crore from the corporation is being probed by the ED, which raided 23 premises in four states. During the raids on the premises of Nagendra and Daddal, the ED recovered incriminating documents linking them to handling of diverted funds during the recent Lok Sabha elections. Additionally, associates of Nagendra were implicated in diversion of funds and cash management. Incriminating evidence related to handling of transferred funds was also found at the residence of Daddal.

Sri Lanka Navy seizes 2 Indian vessels

CHENNAI: The Sri Lankan Navy seized two deep sea fishing mechanised vessels and reportedly took 22 fishermen of the Tharuvakulam fishing harbour into custody for alleged violation of the International Maritime Boundary Line (IMBL) here on Monday. It is learnt that the fishers were apprehended at Neduntheevu and later escorted to Kankesam port for further inquiry. However, fisheries officials claimed that they are yet to receive official communication in this regard.

TN CM: Time not ripe to make Udhay DCM

Chennai: Tamil Nadu Chief Minister MK Stalin responded to speculations surrounding Minister for Youth Welfare and Sports Development Udhaya-nidhi Stalin's elevation as Deputy Chief Minister, and said that the time is not ripe yet. He was visiting Kolathur assembly constituency to inspect various infrastructure work undertaken. When a journalist asked about 'requests strengthening' for Udhayanidhi's elevation, Stalin said, "It may be strengthening, but not ripe." His response came amidst recent rumours that Udhayanidhi would be elevated as Deputy CM

5K acres of forest land encroached in Kodagu

PRAJNA G R @ Madikeri

OVER 3,000 forest encroachment cases have been registered by the Kodagu division Forest Department even as some are in the eviction process. With Forest Minister Eshwar Kandre passing stringent orders to evict all encroachments across Western Ghats, department officials are on high alert to identify more encroachments in the district. While Kodagu is synonymous with greenery, not all greenery is forest land. Land is increasingly being converted for commercial purposes, and converting forests into estates and estates into homestays/resorts, is interfering with the ecosystem. Eco-sensitive zones have recorded increased developmental activities, which in-turn increases human-wildlife conflict. Monsoon season adds to the fear in the district as well. However, Khandre's order to evict encroachments comes as a huge relief, and the first step in protecting eco-sensitive zones in the district.

"There are a total of 3,410 forest encroachment cases in Madikeri division pending before several courts," confirmed Madikeri DCF Bhaskar. He explained that these include a total of 5,551 acres of encroached forest land across Somwarpet, Madikeri, Bhagamandala, Kushalnagar and Sampaje forest ranges.

He added that there are a few cases pertaining to tribal possession of the forest region under the Forest Rights Act.

"There are 2,841 cases of under 3 acres of encroached forest land, and we have been ordered not to evict small encroachments as of now. However, encroachments of above 3 acres, will be dealt with strictly," he added.

Siddu assures aid to farmers who lost crops in Belagavi floods

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

DURING his visit to the flood-hit areas of Belagavi district on Monday, Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah said that the government will take a suitable decision on the permanent shifting of Jugul and Mangavati villages in Kagwad taluk, which are repeatedly affected by floods. "The government will discuss with people's representatives from the region and only then decide on their relocation," he said.

While inspecting the flood-hit areas near Kagwad, he added that Krishna River overflows during the monsoon, and Jugul and Mangavati villages have more than 3,000 homes, which are badly affected by floods every monsoon. Siddaramaiah said that the two villages were the worst affected, and need serious attention.

"After the onset of monsoon this time, Kagwad has received an average 62 percent excessive rainfall, which led to the rise in the water level of reservoirs. Water being released from the neighbouring state Maharashtra, added to the flood situation in the villages," he added.

Villagers have been demanding a permanent solution to their problems, and he reassured the people of all flood-hit areas in Belagavi district that the government is committed to compensate the people affected in the floods. Government survey will be conducted to ascertain the losses, and farmers who lost their crops to the floods would get compensation as per the NDRF norms, he said.

MLC Prakash Hukkeri said the government has sanctioned three bridges in Chikodi and Kagwad taluks in 2017, will help the villagers to a great extent.

Water released into T'bhadra, acres of land flooded

Gadag: Mundargi taluk's Vithalapur village is now inundated after more water was released to Tungabhadra river from Sinagatalur barrage. Water has stagnated up to knee-level at several places in this village. Gadag deputy commissioner Govind Reddy and SP B S Nemagouda visited the village and directed meetings with officials on taking necessary precautions and shifting the villagers to safer places. Farmers are worried as hundreds of acres are flooded by water and many of them have lost their crops this time due to the flood.

Landslide at the tunnel near Karwar | EXPRESS

KARWAR-BINAGA TUNNEL LIKELY TO SHUT AGAIN AFTER LANDSLIDE SCARE

The tunnel connecting Karwar and Binaga is again in the news as experts here have suggested to either close it down for traffic or take safety precautions after a minor landslide was reported here. For a brief period, the tunnel remained closed after a landslide occurred enroute this tunnel, where a few boulders from a rocky hillock caved in. The traffic movement was restricted here until the landslide was cleared. Prior to it, there was a landslide on Karwar-Binaga road via Baithkol and the traffic movement was restricted on this stretch and the situation continues to remain the same. With this, Karwar was almost cut off until the district administration barricaded a portion of the road and partially allowed the traffic from Binaga to Karwar on the stretch.

POSER FROM PARIS: INDIAN BOXING NEEDS TO INTROSPECT, REBOOT

THE Paris North Venue at Parc de Exposition, which is the second largest convention centre in France, is hosting the boxing competition. Some boxers created history and a few broke the glass ceiling, while others faced heartbreak. India were among those who had to exit the stage with pain. When Lovlina Borgohain, a bronze medallist in Tokyo, lost to Li Qian of China, any hopes of salvaging pride vanished. What would hurt India more is the way two-time world champion Nikhat Zareen lost to another Chinese boxer.

The sport that has given India three medals since Vijender Singh's bronze in Beijing, was not in the pink of health this time. If one considers the support received from the Sports Authority of India through its Target Olympic Podium scheme and assistance to national sports federations—among the highest in terms of money—the results are a let-down. One can say the draws were tough; but then, only the top boxers from each continent qualify.

There have been issues plaguing the Boxing Federation of India (BFI), too. Foreign coaches or high-performance directors (HPD) were sacked or left under mysterious circumstances. The selection policies kept changing. BFI officials do not have a strong grassroots programme to infuse fresh blood. BFI and SAI have been concentrating on elite boxers, leading to a divide between the best and the rest. This in turn led to a lack of good sparring partners. Boxers at the national camp were not allowed to fight with those outside. There are no strong next-gen boxers who can replace the seniors. The women boxers fought with gumption, but the noise around them was not healthy; too many promotional activities came in the way of focused training.

Boxing needs a complete overhaul. After the last HPD left, the reins were handed to Dimitry Dimitrov, who was brought in as head coach for the women's team. They need an all-inclusive programme to drive the sport forward, and not another knee-jerk reaction.

The Games setback offers officials a clean slate. There is now a chance for holistic growth rather than another short-term change. A lot can still change for the sport, too—no body knows yet if it will remain in Los Angeles Olympics. But India can only control the controllables. For that to happen, they will have to get their own house in order.

ODISHA NEEDS TO QUICKLY FILL POLICE, LEGAL POSTS

IT has been seven months since Odisha has had a full-time director general of police. Three months before Sunil Bansal, an IPS officer of the 1987 batch, retired as DGP on December 31, 2023, the then BJD government was supposed to begin the process for appointing his successor, which requires to follow the guidelines laid down by the Supreme Court and Union Public Service Commission. While the previous dispensation did not fulfil its obligation on time and appointed an acting DGP before the elections, the BJP government that took over in June has also dragged its feet on the matter. Now, the selection process for the new police chief has just begun. This is despite the fact that in February, the Union home ministry had asked several states including Odisha to follow the top court's guidelines instead of choosing ad hoc DGPs. Law enforcement is one of the principal duties of states and in uniformed services the force looks up to its chief for commandeering. Without a full-time DGP, the structural integrity of the law enforcement machinery is bound to be affected. That is why it is important that the Odisha government does not waste time in putting the appointment process on a fast track.

It is not only about the DGP appointment. The state's BJP government has been tardy on other crucial appointments too. The post of advocate general was filled up only after the Orissa High Court expressed its displeasure over the delay in appointment that had led to a pile-up of cases. Another example is the Odisha Lokayukta. The state anti-corruption ombudsman's office has been virtually defunct without a chairperson and two members after the end of the previous appointees' tenures. With a solitary non-judicial member left, the statutory body has been rescheduling the dates of various cases as it cannot summon a bench for hearing. In this instance, the previous government had gone through the process of selection, but it got stuck after the polls were announced. However, the incumbent administration has not yet made up its mind whether to take it forward or revisit the selection. With the new dispensation now firmly settled in, it is high time all important and statutory posts are filled up at the earliest.

QUICK TAKE

A WEEK OF MONDAYS

A busy start to the week in West Asia signalled soaring anxiety of a wider war. Iran proclaimed its "moral duty to punish Israel" for Ismail Haniyeh's assassination, Israeli rockets killed more people in Lebanon and Gaza, and Russia's security council secretary Sergei Shoigu opened talks with Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian. An Organisation of Islamic Cooperation meeting later this week would be the next post to understand the distance Tehran is prepared to go. Given that the US administration's promise not to stay silent on Gaza remains a wish for now, it's time again for multilateral groups to try and contain a conflagration. None can afford to suffer more for want of trying.

INDIA is a nation of shopkeepers. Today, we boast a total of 14.6 million shops in the nation. Look around. Even as you and I step out of our homes, not more than three minutes goes by without passing either a paan shop, a small kirana or daily provisions store, or a large supermarket. Our lives are a clutter of small shops. We are spoiled bad. For our every need, want, desire and aspiration, there is a store close by. At arm's-length reach. At desire's-length reach even.

Look at it from another perspective. How many of us have a shop within us? How many of our close relatives actually run a shop, big or small? The answer is loaded. We have a shopkeeper in our family either in the first, second or third rung of relationships. The shop and its upkeep is therefore within our DNA as Indians in more ways than one. If you don't own a shop, you possibly cater to a shop. You sell stocks into a shop possibly through a sales and distribution business. And then there is yet another enterprise that intermediates between the manufacturer and the retailer at the street level. Informal numbers indicate the size of this business in sheer number terms to be as large as $1.3 trillion in 2022 when last audited. Finally, all of us are related to shops in some way or the other. Which one of us has survived without going out to that small little shop to buy a bar of soap, sugar or cigarette?

The shop then is the true-blue representative of early-stage small entrepreneurship. It began with a shop and in many ways it ends with a shop. All entrepreneurship are leverage-businesses to ensure the satiation of man's want and need to buy and use. The most modern apps of today that cater to the needs of a new generation of consumers for both products and services are just this. The shop began small, went medium-sized, went self-service, grew into a mega-mart, and then disappeared altogether to enter into those very homes that came to the shop in the days gone by through e-commerce. You don't have to go to the shop anymore. Instead, the shop comes to you. In the bargain, instead of you stepping out to buy that loaf of bread from your corner bakery, the bread came home, driven in on an outsourced e-bike, brought in by an outsourced delivery boy and paid for on an e-payment gateway. The shop in many cases is no more. Long live the shop. The shop is on the cloud. Long live the cloud. Interestingly, this very kirana shop of yours is possibly selling more in the delivery-format than the in-shop format. Life has changed. Business has.

India has almost 15 million shops. What holds this essential segment back is the lack of broader market access and branding. It's time to think different

LEVERAGING THE NATION OF SHOPKEEPERS

HARISH BIJOOR

This nation of shopkeepers of ours is therefore best poised to do business, more than any other. Yes, we are a nation of tech people today. But that's a total of 5.4 million people. We are a nation of doctors too, with 13.08 lakh allopathic ones registered with the National Medical Commission as on June 22. We are a nation of engineers, of teachers. But then, in sheer terms of numbers, exposure, relationships and the DNA of business intent, we are essentially a nation of shopkeepers.

The agenda of the shopkeeper is therefore the biggest agenda we need to focus on. We must plan for the future of the shopkeeper. What does the shopkeeper do next? Where is he stuck today? In the beginning he was small. Then big. And now bigger still in the virtual format.

The shopkeeper reaches out to the rest of the world, which was hitherto inaccessible. Business today comes from all over. The humble Indian broomstick finds its way into Walmart across its stores in the US, just as Indian firewood finds its way into an ASDA in the UK. The most rustic offerings from India find value-added homes in the best of Western supermarkets. India is a supply waiting to feed the demand of the world. And the supply chain to facilitate this is that much more in a flux than ever before. Herein lies the story of the future, as it should unfold.

Today's story of Indian exports into a global market is rather lopsided. If one examines Indian export earnings, we still earn from the core category of commodity, as opposed to the higher-end cat-rally prefer to know more about feasts than funerals. We know everything about the Anant Ambani wedding, for example. The estimated budget of ₹5,000 crore, to begin with. The VIP list of invitees. The warmth of million-dollar hugs between total strangers in golden gowns.

Public services often seem guided by the sentiment that the citizen is receiving a favour. The railways are no exception. Despite the government's efforts, we seem unable to overcome the backwardness of this essential service

But we do not know, or cannot recall, the name or face of a single railway passenger who bought his ticket for his/her final ride. Surely a death that they are not responsible for must rate a higher monetary value than the ₹2-crore watches that Bollywood stars got for attending a wedding?

Almost every other year, India witnesses a railway accident. But there has been no sustained discussion about the nature of the accidents, compensation or safety. The last white paper on the railways was in 2009. Neither the treasury benches nor the opposition has followed up on the seemingly permanent backwardness of the railways. How odd it is to talk about sending a rocket to land on the moon at a precise spot, and the country's inability to warn one train that another is coming at it from the opposite direction on the same track, though the same satellite information systems are at work. These systems can sense oncoming trains and alert the pilots and control centres almost instantly.

Yet, rail travel is a bit like a war to the average Indian. If the same rate of accidents was applied to air travel, there would be hell to pay. Recently, when the Delhi airport roof began leaking, it made headlines in every newspaper. Almost every railway station, used by the poorer classes a million times more, is in much worse shape—and yet, it is seen as pretty much all right.

The present minister has done a lot, introducing new high-speed trains and modernising the railways. Among the safety measures he has introduced is the Kavach, a train collision avoidance system named with a mythological allusion. This too involves satellite communication in part, we are told. None of this is cutting-edge technology. All of it has been there for scores of years. It is that we are way behind. It is that despite our ambition—Bovarian in its delusions of grandeur—to become a superpower or the third largest economy, we do not attach importance to the individual or try hard to make his or her life a little easier.

In government offices, ration shops and even splendidly garish public toilets, the guiding sentiment is that the individual consumer is a subject receiving a favour. The railways itself affords a prime example of this almost philosophical disposition. How else can one explain the Mumbai local trains, which feel like travelling concentration camps, transporting 7.5 million commuters daily when they should be carrying less than half that number? There are changes in Mumbai's daily commuting, of course. The metro, for example—but it is about 50 years late in making its entry.

Clearly, the problem with the railways is the same as most of its trains: it is racing against time, and constantly falling behind.

egory of product and brand. Our top five exports are leather and its products, petroleum products, gems and jewellery, auto, equipment parts and electronic goods, and pharmaceutical products.

When the product pipeline seems to dry up, we move into services (the best being IT services of value $193 billion in 2022). The worst of the lot is the agricultural pipeline. We still do live out a life-script carved out for us by the British, as exporters of the basic commodity that markets of the West need and want.

The business of India happens not only from and through the big conglomerates and business houses that dominate our imagination by the very fact that they are in the news all the time. The business of India resides in its small towns and villages. India today boasts of a population of 63.4 million medium, small and micro enterprises. As the Union Budget 2024 just unveiled by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman brings the MSME category into focus, we need to understand very simply that we are all shopkeepers. We are medium, small and micro shops. Some of our shops sell 'kirana', and some sell services such as healthcare and beauty. Some of our shops manufacture small tools that go as components in bigger manufacture. Some of us offer intermediary services in consulting, tax, audit and more. The net of it is that we are all about the shop and the shopkeeper in us.

My study of the MSME sector in India, across eight regions (concluded in March 2024) indicates just two primary gaps that keep our 63.4 million MSMEs down. The first is the fact that we have no access to the expanded markets of today. Our distribution does not tap into the e-format in B2B and B2C marketing equally, where the world is really our oyster. Our go-to market strategy thinks small, medium and micro. Never massive.

The second lag and gap is branding. We do not believe enough in it. As the world of consumption across 126 countries swears by the branded offering, we are still content being in the space that is a basic commodity.

The MSME sector in India needs to sit up and smell the opportunity. The world is indeed my oyster today. I need to invest in both the e-format of reaching out to markets as well as prudent investments into the subject of building relevant, original and innovative brands for the world at large. I am a shopkeeper for sure. I need to think like an e-shopkeeper now. I need to think like the branded shopkeeper.

Promote diversity

The proposed amendments to the Wakf Act are indeed a significant step towards improving transparency and accountability in the management of wakf properties in India. Regular audits and increased transparency in financial transactions are crucial steps to prevent potential misuse of funds. Including women in the governing bodies of wakf boards would also promote diversity and ensure a more inclusive approach to decision-making.

BSF sounds high alert along Indo-Bangla borders

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

IN the wake of turmoil in Bangladesh, the Border Security Force on Monday issued a "high alert" across all its formations along the 4,096-km border with India's eastern neighbour. All senior officials and commanders of the force, including Director General (acting) Daljit Singh Chawdhary, are camping in Kolkata to review the security situation, officials said.

Officials said the force has issued directions to all its field commanders to be "on ground" and "deploy all personnel on border duty immediately", as leaves of all personnel posted along the Bangladesh border have been cancelled in the last few weeks after the country witnessed massive protests. All units have now been asked to "acquire an all alert posture".

Meanwhile, the DG BSF along with the additional director general, Eastern Command and Maninder Pratap Singh, inspector general, South Bengal visited the border posts in North 24 Parganas district and the Sunderbans area of West Bengal, the force said in an official statement, adding that the purpose of the visit was to review the operational preparedness and strategic deployment of the force.

over the additional charge on August 3 and his first official visit after that was to Indo-Bangladesh border.

"The visit commenced with a detailed briefing of Eastern Command by Additional DG, Eastern Command Ravi Gandhi. The briefing covered the scenario and operations of the battalions of Eastern Command, where the DG was given details of the BSF role in maintaining national security along the sensitive international border," a statement read.

After the briefing, the DG BSF, along with Gandhi and other officers proceeded to visit Dhamakhali. The Commandant of 118th Battalion briefed the senior officials on the battalion's water border along Bangladesh en route to the Floating BOP deployed at T-junction, highlighting the unique challenges of the rain-forest and water-rich terrain and the effective measures implemented to tackle border crimes including smuggling and illegal crossings, it said.

The BSF guards the Indian front on the eastern flank of the country that runs along 5 states. West Bengal shares a total of 2,217 km of border with Bangladesh, along with Tripura (856km), Meghalaya (443km), Assam (262km) and Mizoram (318 km).

Kol-Dhaka Maitree Exp to remain suspended, goods train services hit

The decision to restore services will be taken after watching the situation in Bangladesh, which has been hit by a wave of student unrest in the past few weeks

Indian railway official

Freight ops disrupted

A railway source said freight operations have also been disrupted due to the unrest in Bangladesh. "A total of 168 loaded wagons and 187 empty wagons are struck in Bangladesh. Side-by-side, 8 loaded rakes of Bangladesh were detained in India, said a railway official.

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

RAIL services between India and Bangladesh have halted following days of unrest in Bangladesh. The services of Kolkata-Dhaka Maitree Express will continue to remain suspended on Tuesday after the unrest took an ugly turn on Monday with incumbent PM Sheikh Hasina leaving the country amid violence and attacks on her official residence in Bangladesh's capital Dhaka.

"The services of Maitree Express, which has not been operational since July 19, will remain suspended on August 6", said an Eastern Railway in a statement.

An official statement shared with the media by the Ministry of Railway on Monday confirming it saying that 13109/10 Kolkatta-Dhaka-Kolkata Maitree Express will remain cancelled till August 6. "The decision to restore services will be taken after watching the situation in Bangladesh," a source said.

The 13129/30 Kolkata-Khulna-Kolkata Bandhan Express from the Bangladesh side will also remain suspended till August 6 from July 19 following a decision by Railway Bangladesh.

The same train from Kolkata the side under the Eastern Railway will remain suspended till August 6 and the 13131/32 Dhaka-New Jalpaiguri-Dhaka Mitali Express will also remain cancelled till August 6. "At present rake of the train is in Bangladesh, so train is cancelled," said an official.

A senior railway source told this newspaper that freight operations have also been disrupted due to the unrest in Bangladesh. "A total of 168 loaded wagons and 187 empty wagons are struck in Bangladesh. Side-by-side, 8 loaded rakes of Bangladesh have also been detained in India, said a railway official.

'Second liberation day for Bangladesh, time to build nation'

CALLING the resignation of PM Sheikh Hasina the second liberation for Bangladesh, Nobel Peace Prize winner Dr Muhammad Yunus hailed the students of his country as the best in the world. "They have released the country from the hands of a dictator. We are free now. It's time to celebrate," Yunus told Bala Chauhan from Paris, where he is accompanying Bangladesh's Olympic contingent. Excerpts:

How do you look at the violence and arson, which started against the government quota policy and ended with ouster of Sheikh Hasina? Everybody—young and old—is celebrating in the country, out on the streets, after a long time. This is a liberation celebration. Finally, we emerged from everything terrible happening to us. Hasina has fled the country and we are free to build a new country. I congratulate the students for achieving what no political party or world leader could do. Hasina is out and we are a free country now. This was in the offing, though I had no idea that it (protest) would become so big. What started as a students' protest against the reservation policy got momentum from parents, civil society.

have taken away the election. There are 170 million people, a large section is young, who has never voted in an election. The anger simmered and was stoked by the quota system.

What's next for Bangladesh?

I don't know because I am out of the country. I don't know what message the Army is giving out. I don't like the Army, nor does anyone in Bangladesh. They are chaotic. I hope they set up a caretaker government and elections are held soon. Before Hasina left, I pleaded for participative, transparent elections. Let people choose. I said let's have a caretaker government and hold elections, but she held fake polls. That was at the root of the problem. Rampant corruption is another big problem. I didn't know that student protests would become so big that even the Army would not be able to do anything.

Do you see any external role in the clashes?

I had made an appeal to world leaders for help to stop the government from killing young people. I didn't get any response. Anyone of them could have picked up the phone and spoken to her.

But the cost was so high... so many lives were lost.

She was killing young people. She asked the police to kill people, impose curfew. I appealed to all world leaders to come and help the young leaders. Students mobilised the movement. They were joined by their parents. Citizens joined the movement seeking the PM's resignation. We wanted the quota system to be revised, but Hasina reacted with bullets.

What was the demand on quota?

They (students) didn't ask the government to roll back the quota but to revise it and make it reasonable. There's 56% reservation for government jobs under quota, for the descendants of freedom fighters. What was left for merit?

What is the messaging behind political overturn — that students can bring down a government?

Yes. Students organised themselves and brought down the most powerful PM in the country. She had to leave Bangladesh. That's the power of young people. I had appealed to all world leaders, seeking help for our youth being killed. I said killing doesn't help solve political problems. You (Hasina)

How do you respond to the instances of vandalism?

Hasina made people so angry that it is spilling over against her father and family.

What's your message to students in your country?

Be firm. You have made history. You have stopped your country from falling apart. Now lead. A new government will have to talk to you. The country's economy is in bad shape and so is the entire system.

What has been the role of your neighbours? India, in particular.

I blame India for having good ties with the wrong people. You have a policy towards Bangladesh. Please revisit your foreign policy. You congratulated people over an election which was never held.

Bill to reserve seats for STs in Goa Assembly introduced in Lok Sabha

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

IN a significant move, the Centre on Monday introduced a bill in the Lok Sabha to provide reservation to Scheduled Tribes (STs) in the Goa Legislative Assembly. Though it has been a long drawn demand of the ST communities, no seats were reserved for tribals in the 40-member state Assembly till now.

According to estimates, the ST population in Goa accounts for 1.5 lakhs. The introduction of the Bill comes close on the heels of the Supreme Court verdict on allowing states to create sub-categorisation within the Scheduled caste (SCs) and Scheduled Tribes (STs).

The bill 'Readjustment of Representation of Scheduled Tribes in Assembly Constituencies of the State of Goa Bill, 2024', will empower the census commissioner to notify the population of STs in Goa.

Based on the numbers, the Election Commission (EC) will amend the Delimitation of Parliamentary and Assembly Constituencies Order, 2008, to pave the way for ST reservation in the Assembly. The EC will take into consideration the revised population figures of STs and readjust the legislative Assembly constituency once the Bill becomes a law.

The proposal to bring the Bill was cleared by the Union Cabinet in March this year; days before the schedule for the Lok Sabha elections was announced on March 16.

The ST community has been demanding that four out of the 40 seats in Goa be reserved for it. As of now, one seat is reserved for Scheduled Castes in the BJP-ruled state.

Shivraj says govt committed to dialogue with farmers amid Oppn walkout in RS

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AMID walkout by the Opposition, Union Agriculture Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan on Monday reiterated the government's commitment to address the farmers' issues through dialogue.

Dubbing the Congress "anti-farmers" who neglected the farmers' welfare during its rule, the minister alleged that several peasants were killed when the grand old party was in power. "In 1986, when the Congress was ruling in Bihar, 23 farmers were killed in firing and on the death anniversary of Indira Gandhi in 1988 in Delhi, two farmers lost their lives", he alleged triggering a walkout by the Opposition.

"They don't have the patience to hear the truth hence are walking away from the House", Chouhan said, adding further that five farmers were killed in 1988 in Meerut also when the Congress was in power. He continued defending the Modi government's agriculture policies amid Opposition walkout.

Highlighting the Modi government's works for farmers' welfare, he described the Congress as "all talk no walk". The Congress only talked about direct assistance to the ryots but never came out with a scheme like 'Pradhan Mantri Kisan Samman Nidhi' - the Modi government has made under the NDA rule for farmers.

Union Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan in the Rajya Sabha during the Monsoon session of Parliament in New Delhi on Monday | PTI

Seeking the state governments' cooperation, he said that the farmers' welfare tops the priority list of the present government and all the state governments should support and cooperate.

"There is no denying that there are problems in agriculture but those can be sorted. We will speak to farmers and their associations and find solutions", he asserted, while replying to a discussion on the working of the agriculture ministry and farmers' welfare.

Chouhan was called by the RS chairman to complete his reply in RS after the question hour ended and the minister tore into Congress on its allegations against the Centre on the farmers' issues.

Govt likely to table bill in Parliament on August 8

8.7 lakh properties

Wakf refers to properties dedicated for religious or charitable purposes under Islamic laws.

The Wakf boards currently control 8.7 lakh properties spanning 9.4 lakh acres of land across India.

Effective oversight

The proposed amendments are expected to include provisions that ensure more effective oversight and management of Wakf properties.

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AMID an anticipated protest by the Opposition, the NDA-III government is likely to introduce a Bill on August 8 in Parliament proposing 40 amendments to the Wakf Act, 1995. The legislation proposes to enhance transparency, accountability, and gender representation in Wakf boards, which manage Muslim properties donated for religious purposes. Sources hinted that the bill is likely to be moved on August 8. If it could not be done due to some reason, the Bill could be tabled by the end of this week.

The proposed amendments are expected to include provisions that ensure more effective oversight and management of Wakf properties. According to government sources, one of the key aspects of the bill is to bolster transparency in the utilization of Wakf assets and introduce stricter accountability measures.

Additionally, the bill seeks to increase the representation of women on Wakf boards, aligning with broader efforts to promote gender equity.

As per available references, the Wakf boards currently control 8.7 lakh properties spanning 9.4 lakh acres of land across India. And it makes the boards the third largest landowner in India after the armed forces and the Indian Railways. Despite frequent assertions from the government side that the bill will neither be aimed at taking control of Wakf lands, the proposed legislation is likely to face strong opposition.

SP, Uddhav, IUML slam 'devisive politics' of govt

If govt passes the Bill, it will make it mandatory for Wakf boards to register their properties. BJP wants to have a grip on such properties... they want to take custody of them

M Basheer, Muslim League MP

Political row brews

CPI(M) MP Amra Ram said the BJP believes in "divisive politics" and instead of strengthening Wakf boards, they are trying to interfere with them.

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AMID speculation that the Centre is planning to bring a Bill in Parliament for amending the Wakf Act, several opposition leaders on Monday termed it 'divisive politics', saying they will oppose such legislation.

A senior Congress leader said that the party will reserve its comments until the Bill is tabled. However, the leader said that the BJP-led government's intent is to polarise the society.

SP chief Akhilesh Yadav said his party will oppose the move to amend the 1995 law governing Wakf boards, and accused the BJP of trying to snatch the rights of Muslims.

If the government passes the Bill in Parliament, it will make it mandatory for the Wakf boards to register their properties with the district collectors to ensure their actual valuation. Congress ally in Kerala, Indian Union Muslim League (IUML) said the move on the part of the government is ill-intentioned. Muslim League MP E T Mohammed Basheer said, "A committee was appointed under K Rahman Khan and the BJP wanted to have a grip on the Wakf properties. They want to take custody of the properties. If such legislation comes, we will very strongly oppose it."

Shiv Sena (UBT) MP Priyanka Chaturvedi said that the Modi government wants to run away from the discussion on Budget and therefore, they have come up with the Wakf issue.

Greenhouse emissions from agri sector comes down in 2 decades, says Centre

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

THE Union Government on Monday announced that India has successfully reduced greenhouse gas emissions from agriculture over the past two decades, even as food production has risen significantly.

Greenhouse gas emissions from the agricultural sector have progressively decreased, falling from 23% of total emissions in 2000 to 18% in 2010, and further to 13.44% in 2019. During this period, India's food production surged by over 64%.

In 2000, India's total food production was approximately 200 million metric tonnes (MMT), increasing to 329 MMT by 2023.

Union Minister of State for Environment, Forest and Climate Change Kirti Vardhan Singh stated that, according to the Third National Communication (TNC) report submitted to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC) in 2023, emissions from the agriculture sector in 2019 were 420.97 million tonnes of CO2 equivalent.

"Despite the increase in agricultural production, the share of emissions from the agriculture sector has decreased progressively, from 23% in 2000 to 18% in 2010, and to 13.44% of total greenhouse gas emissions in 2019," Singh said in response to a question from Member of Parliament Rajiv Pratap Rudy.

In 2019, food grains such as rice, wheat, pulses, and coarse cereals were cultivated on 65% of the total harvested area in the country. The greenhouse gas emissions from these crops are primarily methane from rice cultivation and nitrous oxide from fertilizer use.

Bhoj wetland in Bhopal faces no threat, says govt

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

THE Union Government has refuted claims that the Bhoj Wetland in Bhopal, a designated Ramsar site, is under threat of delisting from the Ramsar Convention's list of wetlands of international importance.

Recent reports suggested that Bhoj Wetland, a prestigious Ramsar site, could be delisted due to concerns related to a proposed road project through its catchment area. This led to a complaint being filed by a local environmental activist with the Ramsar Convention Secretariat.

Union Minister of State for Environment, Forest and Climate Change, Kirti Vardhan Singh, confirmed that according to the Madhya Pradesh State Wetland Authority, Bhoj Wetland is not at risk of being removed from the Ramsar list.

Suspension of Cong MLA sparks scuffle in Raj House

Cong legislators stop marshals from escorting MLA out of Assembly

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

IT was a day of high drama in the Rajasthan Assembly as a scuffle erupted between marshals and Congress MLAs following the suspension of young MLA Mukesh Bhakar on Monday. Assembly Speaker Vasudev Devnani suspended Bhakar from the remaining budget session proceedings, citing his unruly behaviour and alleged disrespectful gestures toward the Speaker.

Ugly scenes were witnessed after chairperson Sandeep Sharma ordered marshals to evict the suspended MLA from the House. As marshals tried to escort Bhakar out of the House, Congress MLAs surrounded him, which ultimately led to an ugly and chaotic confrontation. The altercation resulted in senior MLA Harimohan Sharma falling to the ground, and several other MLAs also being caught in the fracas. MLA Anita Jatav's bangles were reportedly broken in the melee.

In response to the incident, slogan-shouting Congress MLAs staged a sit-in protest within the House even after the chairperson announced an adjournment for the day. Leader of the Opposition Tikaram Julie declared, "We will remain on a dharna all night in protest against this high-handed action." Food and bedding were delivered to the protesting MLAs within the House as they began their relentless vigil.

The controversy erupted over the appointment of Public Prosecutors (PP) by Tikaram Julie under the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) instead of the Indian Civil Security Code (BNSS). Julie, citing the rules, demanded that a minister's family member not be appointed as a Public Prosecutor.

However, Julie did not specify which minister's family member received this appointment, only stating that a minister's son was appointed despite the rules.

The uproar in the House intensified, leading to the scuffle with marshals and the adjournment of proceedings.

After the uproar, Julie addressed the media and asserted, "CrPC ended in the country on June 30, and the Indian Civil Security Code (BNSS) came into force on July 1. This means that after July 1, citizens and police in the country are bound to follow this new code. However, the state advocates have been appointed in 12 districts by the Law Secretary, Government of Rajasthan, under Section 24(2) of CrPC, whereas the appointment should have been made under Section 18 of BNSS."

With the ruling BJP and the opposition MLAs adopting tough postures, this logjam in the Assembly may take a lot of effort to be resolved. An air of suspense and uncertainty prevails at the Rajasthan assembly.

Bengal Assembly resolution against 'division of state'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

THE ruling TMC and the opposition BJP put up a rare show of unity the West Bengal Assembly on Monday by passing a resolution against any attempt to divide the state. The BJP, often being accused of fueling demands for the division of West Bengal, said it was opposed to bifurcation, and would rather want development of the northern areas.

"We believe in cooperative federalism. We are opposed to any attempt to divide the state," said Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee while speaking on the motion. "Bengal has fought for India's freedom. The state's culture and heritage is important for the entire country... Let us work together for the development of northern West Bengal. Don't judge our commitment towards the region only by funds under the North Bengal Development Department," she said. Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari proposed the inclusion of a line in the motion: "We want overall development of a united West Bengal."

Mamata accepted the proposal, paving the way for the resolution's passage. After Union minister Sukanta Majumdar proposed the inclusion of northern West Bengal under the Ministry of DoNER, fresh demands for a separate state of Cooch Behar were raised by party MP Ananta Maharaj.

Badal pens letter to Akal Takht, says 'sorry for mistakes'

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

FACING a vertical split in his party, Shiromani Akali Dal chief Sukhbir Singh Badal on Monday "accepted" all allegations leveled against him by rebel leaders and sought "unconditional forgiveness for all mistakes."

The rebel leaders have accused Badal of favouring Dera Sacha Sauda chief Gurmeet Ram Rahim and influencing the Akal Takht to pardon the sect chief. Badal is also accused of defending the controversial former state police chief, Sumedh Singh Saini.

Akal Takht (the highest temporal body of Sikhs) released a letter that Sukhbir Badal wrote to high priest Jathedar Giani Raghubir Singh in response to the allegations. Badal's letter read: "I am praying before the Guru with a true heart without indulging in a debate. Whatever written is held against us, the servant apologises to Guru Sahib and Guru Panth unconditionally by appearing at the Akal Takht Sahib. Being the head of the family, the servant accepts all mistakes. I seek forgiveness."

Before making Sukhbir's letter public, Akal Takht Jathedar Raghubir Singh, Takht Dandama Sahib Jathedar Harpreet Singh and Takht Kesgarh Sahib Jathedar Sultan Singh held an informal meeting at the Takht secretariat. "The clarification letter has been made public to end all confusion. The final decision will be taken at the next meeting of the Sikh clergy (Panj Singh Sahiban)," said Talwinder Singh Buttar, media adviser of the Akal Takht Jathedar.

In the first part of his letter, Sukhbir reproduced the atonement letter submitted by then chief minister late Parkash Singh Badal to the Akal Takht on October 17, 2015. Sukhbir said his father had submitted the letter to express his pain by appearing before the then jathedar.

On July 1, rebel SAD leaders including former MP Sukhdev Singh Dhindsa, former Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee president Jagir Kaur, former MP Prem Singh Chandumajra, senior leaders Gurpratap Wadala and Surjit Singh Rakhra appeared before the Akal Takht Jathedar and apologized for their "mistakes".

Fake drainage work bills scam in cleanest city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

ED teams raided multiple locations in Indore on Monday, in connection with a massive scam pertaining to fake drainage works bill at the Indore Municipal Corporation (IMC). The estimated sum of the alleged scam which came to the fore a few months back may well run into over ₹125 crores.

The ED teams started the raids in the early morning at the residential and official premises of those involved in the alleged scam, particularly private contractors whose firms are involved.

According to official ED sources, the searches at multiple locations (18-20 locations) have so far led to the seizure of around ₹1.3 crore cash, FDRs bank balances to the tune of ₹3.5 crore, besides incriminating documents, property documents and digital devices. The police had a few months back registered multiple FIRs on the complaint of the IMC top brass. An IMC probe panel which found that the fake bills, which happened only on paper between 2019 and 2023, were generated by a nexus of firms of private contractors and staffers of IMC.

Assam Cong MLA's son surrenders before cops in oil pilferage case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE son of an Assam MLA was arrested by the police for alleged involvement in an oil pilferage racket.

Rezaul Huda, a student leader and son of Congress MLA Nurul Huda, surrendered before the police on Sunday night. Subsequently, he was arrested by the police.

He allegedly went underground when his name surfaced in the case. The police could not locate him despite searches in various places.

The police busted the racket last week and arrested five persons. Two luxury cars and ₹1 lakh were seized. One more person was arrested on Monday. The racket was active in central Assam's Nagaon district.

The police learnt about Rezaul's involvement after detecting a financial transaction between him and one of the arrested persons.

Nagaon superintendent of police Swapnil Dekha told the media the police had evidence against Rezaul.

He said the accused was interrogated and further investigation was on. Meanwhile, the MLA said he would cooperate with the police if his son was indeed guilty.

"I learnt that one Ibrahim (one of the arrested persons) had borrowed ₹80,000 from my son and returned ₹50,000 online. This monetary transaction made the police to suspect my son's involvement in the racket," the MLA said.

He added, "If my son is guilty, he will face punishment. But if he is not, I would want that he does not become a victim of any political conspiracy."

Toll mounts to 12 in Himachal floods, 46 missing after cloudbursts

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

WITH the recovery of four more bodies from Mandi and Shimla, the death toll in a series of cloudburst-triggered flash floods in the hill state of Himachal Pradesh rose to 12 on Monday, as per the state emergency response centre data from June 27 onwards.

As many as 46 people in the state, including 30 in Samej village in Rampur subdivision of Shimla district, are still untraceable, the data indicates. Since June 27, Himachal was hit by 37 cloudbursts, flashfloods and 18 landslides. While 83 houses have been fully damaged, flashfloods damaged 38 partially, and landslides one, taking the total to 122. Meanwhile, 14 shops have also been impacted.

The locals claimed that three villages (Samej, Dhara Sarda and Kushwa) along the border of Shimla and Kullu, have no power since the tragedy struck.

More machinery, sniffer dog squad, drones and other equipment have been pressed into service. Around 410 people from teams of the Army, NDRF, SDRF, ITBP, CISF, Himachal Pradesh Police and home guards are involved in the rescue operation besides four JCB machines, said sources.

Sone river in spate, 40 rescued in J'khand

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

MORE than 40 people trapped in the flooded Sone River near Lohargada and Merauni village of Hariharpur in Garhwa districts of Jharkhand, were rescued by State Disaster Relief Force (SDRF) on Monday. The SDRF teams evacuated all the people from a dune area, where they had gone for grazing their cattle and farming activities.

Though the sky was clear in most part of Jharkhand and no rainfall took place on Monday, due to incessant rain at Sonbhadra in Uttar Pradesh, water was released from the Rihand Dam in Renukut leading to a sudden rise in the water level of Sone River. Due to sudden rise in water in Sone River, one and a half dozen villagers from Garhwa district and about two dozen villagers from Rohtas of Bihar were trapped.

Acting swiftly, Garhwa district administration started the rescue operation involving the SDRF. The SDRF team in Jharkhand, and Rohas district administration conducted a rescue operation and evacuated the villagers trapped on the dune area of Sone River.

The cattle trapped in the flood were also rescued successfully by the SDRF teams. Looking at the current circumstances, a high alert has been issued in the areas near the Sone River asking the people to stay away from areas.

When will elections be held? J&K parties clueless

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

FIVE years after the abrogation of Article 370, uncertainty still surrounds the timing of the first Assembly elections in the Jammu and Kashmir Union Territory. Despite plans by the Election Commission to visit the region, political parties are concerned that the BJP might delay the polls further, holding them at their own convenience. Senior PDP leader and former minister Ghulam Nabi Lone (Hanjura) stated that the party has been waiting for elections for the past five years. "We don't know when polls will be held here."

He added, "It is up to the convenience of the BJP. When they decide that elections need to be held, they will hold them; otherwise, they will delay them. They will prioritise their own convenience over ours or the people's." J&K has been under direct central rule since June 2018, following the collapse of the PDP-BJP coalition government. Initially, the region was governed by a Governor, and after the abrogation of Article 370 and the bifurcation of the erstwhile J&K state into two Union Territories, J&K UT has been administered by a Lieutenant Governor.

The PDP leader criticised the BJP for consolidating power through the Lieutenant Governor. "The Lieutenant Governor is their appointee, the administration is theirs, and the officials are theirs. Why would they want to change this arrangement?"

He noted that the BJP-led government has amended J&K's Business Rules to grant more powers to the Lieutenant Governor, suggesting that even if a popular government were to be elected, it would have limited authority.

Rasool also claimed that the BJP fears opposition parties might pass a resolution to restore Article 370 if they come to power. "That is why they are delaying the polls. The BJP's slogan of '50 Paar' in J&K will meet the same fate as their '400 Paar' slogan in the LS polls."

In December last year, the Supreme Court directed the Election Commission to conduct Assembly polls in J&K by September 30, 2024.

J&K Congress chief Vikar Rasool expressed doubts about the BJP's intentions regarding the polls. "The BJP cannot be trusted; they are dishonest," he said, questioning whether Assembly polls would be held and statehood restored.

Rasool expressed scepticism about the BJP's commitment to holding elections even after the SC ruling. "They are likely to try to delay it further. I don't see elections happening soon, but if the SC and ECI act decisively, there might be a possibility." He emphasised that while the BJP government has deprived the elected government of powers, holding elections would at least provide people with representatives to approach.

National Conference leader Tanvir Sadiq remained hopeful about the polls. "The SC has given a very strong, time-bound verdict on J&K polls. If the government fails to comply, it would indicate a fundamental issue in this country," he said. "The apex court has been clear about timely polls and the restoration of statehood to J&K, and we have no reason to doubt it."

Gujarat shrines left high & dry as no funding from Centre in 5 yrs: Data

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

THE Ministry of Culture and Tourism has allocated substantial financial grants under the "Financial Assistance for Allied Cultural Activities" scheme to promote cultural development at temples across India. Despite this, Gujarat's pilgrimage sites have been largely excluded from these funds. In a recent Rajya Sabha query, Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat revealed that over the past five years, only 12 temples in six states have benefited from this scheme. Alarming, none of Gujarat's 348 pilgrimage sites, as listed by the Gujarat Pilgrimage Board, have received any financial support.

On August 1, Rajya Sabha MP GC Chandrashekar submitted a question in the Rajya Sabha under the Unstarred category, inquiring about the government's financial support for temple trusts nationwide. He requested details on any allocated

Only 12 temples benefit

In a recent Rajya Sabha query, Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat revealed that over the past five years, only 12 temples in six states have benefited from this scheme. Alarming, none of Gujarat's 348 pilgrimage sites, as listed by the Gujarat Pilgrimage Board, have received any financial support funds, including a breakdown by trust, year, and scheme.

In response, the government stated, "The Performance Arts Bureau of the Ministry of Culture oversees a financial grant scheme titled 'Financial Assistance for Allied Cultural Activities.' This program aims to fund the development of assets that enhance audio-visual spectacles, ensuring regular live performances and events during festivals in spaces frequented by tourists and visitors."

The government's reply noted, "Over the past five years, only 12 temples across six states have benefited from this scheme." Gujarat was notably absent from the list of recipients. The Ministry of Culture and Tourism has allocated ₹15,45,31,103 under this scheme to 20 temples, including those in Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand, Himachal Pradesh, Maharashtra, Jammu and Kashmir, and Haryana. However, pilgrimage sites in over 20 other states have not received any support.

Gujarat Congress spokesperson Parthiv Raj Singh Kathwadia sharply criticised the government, stating, "This scheme promises local employment for folk artists in shrines for daily activities and festivals. Yet, the people of Gujarat have been unjustly deprived of these benefits."

Kathwadia further charged, "While assistance ranging from ₹54 lakhs to ₹90 lakhs has been allocated to 12 temples elsewhere, not a single rupee has been granted to Gujarat's temples. The BJP government engages in religious politics to secure votes but fails to support the shrines."

Energy minister's house still runs on old meters

"Darkness under the lamp," the old saying truly applies with Bihar energy department minister Bijendra Prasad Yadav. While the department has intensified installation of pre-paid smart metres in households across the state, the energy minister still has old meters installed at his ancestral house in Supaul district. Yadav's house is located in ward number 4 of Kishanpur road locality in Supaul. The electric connection has been allotted in his name (Bijendra). As if this is not enough, even payment of the energy bill of his ancestral home is also pending but energy supply has not been connected by department officials.

'Iron Lady' was in exile in India after the Banga Bandhu's assassination

DHAKA

SHEIKH Hasina, who was elected for a record fourth consecutive term and fifth overall term this year, was always admired by her supporters as an "Iron Lady" before the dramatic development of her fleeing the country on August 5 that abruptly ended her 15-year rule in Bangladesh.

Hasina, who provided stability to the once military-ruled Bangladesh but at the same time criticised as an "autocratic" leader by opponents, was among the world's longest-serving female heads of government. The 76-year-old daughter of Bangladesh founder Sheikh Mujibur Rahman had been ruling the strategically located South Asian nation since 2009. She was elected for a record fourth consecutive term in January in an election boycotted by the main opposition party Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) of former premier Khaleda Zia and its allies.

Born in erstwhile East Pakistan (now in Bangladesh) in September 1947, Hasina became active in politics while studying at the University of Dhaka in the late 1960s. She served as her father's political liaison during his imprisonment by the Pakistani government.

In August 1975, her father Rahman, his wife and their three sons were assassinated in their home by military officers. Hasina and her younger sister Sheikh Rehana survived the purge as they were abroad.

Hasina, who spent six years in exile in India, was elected as the leader of the Awami League, a party founded by her father.

In 1981, Hasina returned home and became vocal about democracy in the country ruled by the military, which placed her under house arrest on multiple occasions.

In the 1991 general elections, the Hasina-led Awami League failed to secure a majority. Five years later, Hasina was elected prime minister in the 1996 general elections. Hasina was voted out of office in the 2001 elections but returned to power with a thumping victory in 2008 polls. BNP has been left in the lurch since then. She escaped an assassination bid in 2004 when a grenade exploded at her rally. Soon after coming to power in 2009, Hasina set up a tribunal to try 1971 war crimes cases. The tribunal convicted some high-profile members of the opposition, sparking violent protests. Hasina presided over one of the world's fastest-growing economies and improved living standards in the country in the past 15 years.

Bangladesh's per capita income tripled under her and its GDP clocked 7.28% last year.

Rioters to face swift criminal action, vows Brit PM Starmer

LONDON

UK Prime Minister Keir Starmer on Monday vowed "swift criminal sanctions" following an emergency meeting on the far-right riots that broke out across England last week over the murder of three children.

The prime minister met with ministers and police chiefs, including Scotland Yard boss Mark Rowley, to discuss how to quell the violence that first broke out in Southport, northwest England, on Tuesday.

Over the weekend, several police officers were injured and scores of people were arrested as mobs throwing bricks and flares clashed with officers, burnt and looted shops, and smashed the windows of cars and homes.

As part of a "number of actions" to come out of Monday's meeting, the government will "ramp up criminal justice" to ensure that "sanctions are swift", Starmer told the media. He also said a "standing army" of specially-trained police officers was ready to be deployed to support local forces where any further riots break out.

"My focus is on making sure that we stop this disorder," he added.

Clashes erupted in Southport a day after three young girls were killed and five more children critically injured during a knife attack at a Taylor Swift-themed dance class.

False rumours initially spread on social media saying the attacker was a Muslim asylum seeker, but police said the suspect was a 17-year-old born in Wales, with UK media reporting he has Rwandan parents. However, that has not stopped mosques from being targeted. Police have since arrested hundreds of people in towns and cities nationwide, with anti-immigration demonstrators and rioters facing off against police and counter-protestors, including groups of Muslims. The prime minister on Sunday warned rioters they would "regret" participating in England's worst disorder in 13 years, while his interior minister Yvette Cooper told the BBC on Monday that "there will be a reckoning". Cooper also said that social media put a "rocket booster" under the violence, and Starmer stressed that "criminal law applies online as well as offline".

Police have blamed the violence on people associated with the English Defence League, an anti-Islam organisation founded 15 years ago whose supporters have been linked to football hooliganism.

Some of the worst scenes on Sunday broke out in Rotherham, northern England, where masked rioters smashed several windows at a hotel that has been used to house asylum seekers. At least 12 officers were injured. AFP

MOVE FORWARD PARTY MIGHT BE DISSOLVED

The charismatic politician who led his young, progressive party to a stunning general election victory a year ago is urging supporters not to lose hope, even if the party is disbanded by a legal order. The Constitutional Court on Aug 7 will rule whether the Move Forward Party violated the constitution by proposing to amend a law that forbids defaming the country's royal family. A petition to the court requested the party's dissolution and a 10-year ban on political activity by its executives, including former chief Pita Limjaroenrat, who now serves as a lawmaker. AP

Diplomats trying to avoid escalation in Middle East

JERUSALEM

DIPLOMATIC pressure mounted on Monday to avoid an escalation between Iran and Israel following high-profile killings that have sent regional tensions soaring, while numerous governments urged their citizens to leave Lebanon.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said on late Sunday that his country was "determined to stand against" Iran and its allied armed groups "on all fronts". As its war against Iran-backed Hamas in Gaza nears its 11th month, Israel has been bracing for retaliation from the Tehran-aligned "axis of resistance" for the assassinations of two senior figures.

Palestinian armed group Hamas's political leader Ismail Haniyeh was killed in Tehran on Wednesday in an attack blamed on Israel, which has not directly commented on it.

The killing came hours after an Israeli strike on Beirut left Hezbollah military chief Fuad Shukur dead.

Tehran said on Monday that "no one has the right to doubt Iran's legal right to punish the Zionist regime" for Haniyeh's killing. US Secretary of State Antony Blinken told his counterparts from the G7 nations in a conference call on Sunday that any attack, which he expected to be a joint undertaking between Hezbollah and Iran, could happen within 24 to 48 hours, as early as Monday, US news site Axios reported.

Blinken asked his counterparts to place diplomatic pressure on Tehran, Hezbollah and Israel to "maintain maximum restraint", it added.

Israel's military spokesman Rear Admiral Daniel Hagari said on Sunday night that "as of now there is no change" in its policy for protecting civilians. In Haifa, shop owner Yehuda Levi, 45, said that Israelis are used to conflict, but facing a multi-pronged attack "is a little tricky". AFP

Re falls below 84 on outflow, recession fears

RBI intervention propped up the currency, helping it close at 83.84 to the greenback, which is still the worst close

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

THE Dalal Street mayhem, triggered by the 12.4% fall in the Japanese markets earlier in the day, followed by the Sensex and the Nifty tanking close to 3% on Monday, brought down the rupee 84 marks intra-day.

Massive intervention by the central bank might have salvaged the day for the currency, helping it close at 83.84 to the US greenback, which still is the worst close for the rupee, losing 9 paise from the previous close. The Indian currency has been under pressure for nearly a month now. The Japanese market fall was triggered by unwinding of yen carry trade — which is worth over $4 trillion worldwide. Carry trade means investing the money borrowed from Japan with zero interest and re-investing that money elsewhere including the US treasury, where the Japanese are the single biggest investors. The unwinding and frenetic selloff began after the Bank of Japan in a surprise move increased the interest to 0.25 from the three decades of zero interest rates and indicated more rate hikes.

This led to panic selling in all asset classes across the world, including in the domestic markets. The rupee weakened to a fresh record low on Monday amid the unwinding of yen carry ry trades, following which all Asian equity markets tanked. Adding to this, the rise in Brent crude, following the escalation of tension in the Middle East, added to the demand for the greenback, while the decline in the dollar index limited the gains. As a result, the rupee weakened 9 paise to end at a record closing low of 83.84 after opening at 83.79 and plunging below the sensitive 84. It had closed at 83.75 last Friday.

The blood bath in the equities and the whacked rupee has had its red marks all over the debt space too with the 10-year benchmark bonds yields gaining 1.03% to close 6.971, or adding 0.071 from the previous close.

The yields tested 6.962 to the upper side and 6.982 to the lower end but is still much better than the 52-week high of 7.395 and the low of 6.894.

Mkt sees further rate hikes

The market is expecting further rate increases in Japan. Additionally, the government intervened in the currency market with a $36.8 billion to support the Yen, which had fallen to a 38-year low of 162 against the dollar.

Yen carry trade: What is the fuss all about

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THIS strategy involves investors borrowing money from a country with low interest rates and a weaker currency, then reinvesting funds in another country that offers higher returns.

The Yen carry trade has been popular due to low volatility in the currency pair, with many market participants anticipating that Japanese rates would remain at historic lows. However, the Bank of Japan recently raised rate to 0.25% from a range of 0.0-0.1%. This marks the second rate hike since March, when the central bank ended its ultra-loose monetary policy after 17 years. The market is expecting further rate increases in Japan. Additionally, the government intervened in the currency market with a $36.8 billion to support the Yen, which had fallen to a 38-year low of 162 against the dollar. This intervention, along with the rate hike, contributed to a major appreciation of the Yen.

Airtel profit more than doubles to ₹4,160 crore in Q1

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

BHARTI AIRTEL, country's second-largest telecom service provider, reported a record profit of ₹4,160 crore for the first quarter ended June 30, 2024. The company's net profit was ₹1,612.5 crore in the same period last year.

In contrast, Bharti Airtel's consolidated net profit was at ₹2,068.2 crore for the previous quarter ending March 2024. The company's consolidated revenues for the quarter reached ₹38,506 crore, reflecting a 2.8% year-on-year (YoY) increase and a 2.4% quarter-on-quarter (QoQ) growth. However, the company noted that its revenue was impacted by currency devaluation in Africa. In India, the company's revenues rose by 10.1% YoY to ₹29,046 crore, driven by a 10.5% YoY increase in mobile revenues. This growth was attributed to improved realisations and sustained customer additions during the quarter. The consolidated EBITDA rose 1.0% YoY to ₹19,944 crore in Q1FY25. EBITDA margin was 51.8% in Q1FY25, compared to 52.7% in Q1FY24. Airtel's consolidated net income before exceptional items for the quarter stood at ₹2,925 crore, while the consolidated net income after exceptional items was ₹4,160 crore. Regarding tariff hikes, Vittal said the industry saw much-needed action on tariff repairs, which is positive for the industry's financial health amid ongoing large network capital expenditures. He emphasised that the industry needs an ARPU of over ₹300 at a minimum for financial stability.

IndiGo set to introduce business class seats on major metro routes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MARKING its departure from an all-economy class cabin, India's largest airline IndiGo on Monday launched 'IndiGo Stretch', its business class seats. Bookings for 'IndiGo Stretch' will commence on the Delhi-Mumbai route from Tuesday at prices starting from ₹18,018. However, the service will start in November.

The company has plans to scale the business class service and offer the same on at least 12 routes, mostly metro-to-metro cities, by the end of 2025. IndiGo also announced the launch of its "Bluchip" loyalty program which will start around September.

"Considering India's soaring economy and the evolving aspirations of our customers, it's a very natural moment to move in that direction," said Pieter Elbers, CEO, IndiGo at an event in Delhi commemorating the airline's 18th anniversary. The business class will feature 12 seats in a 2-2 configuration. It will serve specially 'curated healthy meal' options from Oberoi Catering Services.

IndiGo, which has more than 60% share in the domestic market, will now compete against Tata Group's Air India and associate airlines to lure affluent passengers.

Elbers also highlighted that the airline will be expanding its international presence to over 40 international destinations by the end of this financial year. Currently, IndiGo operates more than 2,000 flights daily and flies to around 120 destinations, including 33 overseas cities.

To operate on mid-haul and long-haul routes, the carrier will be getting A321 XLR planes in 2025 and wide-body A350 aircraft in 2027.

Meanwhile, Rahul Bhatia cleared the air about his future with the airline after he sold a 2% stake in InterGlobe Aviation Ltd, the parent company of IndiGo, for about Rs 3,400 crore. "InterGlobe & I are here to stay," said a teary-eyed Bhatia. He said IndiGo welcomes competition and India deserves more than just two airlines.

Adani Energy raises $1 billion via QIP route

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

ADANI Energy Solutions Limited (AESL) has successfully completed its Qualified Institutional Placement (QIP) of ₹3,373 crore, the largest in India's power sector, on Monday.

This marks AESL's first equity raise in the capital market since its demerger and listing from Adani Enterprises in July 2015. The transaction was launched post-market hours on 30 July 2024, with a base deal size of ₹5,861 crore and an option to sell up to ₹8,373 crore via a green shoe option. The QIP received overwhelming demand, with bids totalling nearly six times the base deal size from a diverse group of investors. This included utility-focused US investors entering the Indian market for the first time, sovereign wealth funds, major Indian mutual funds, and insurance companies.

"India's robust investment cycle and rising power demand are positive indicators for the sector. The strong interest from institutional investors reflects their commitment to and belief in energy transition, in which AESL plays a pivotal role...The response to our QIP reflects the confidence that investors have in our business model, execution capabilities, and effective capital allocation strategy, driving growth and exceptional shareholder value," said Kandarp Patel, CEO of AESL.

The strong interest enabled AESL to fully exercise the green shoe option, increasing the total issue size to $1 billion (approximately ₹8,373 crore).

Sebi amends MF rules to curb front-running, insider trading

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

MARKET regulator Sebi has amended the rules governing mutual funds to curb front-running, insider trading. It has directed the fund houses to have a whistle-blower mechanism, making the asset management companies' (AMCs) management responsible for ensuring the effectiveness of an institutional mechanism to identify and deter front-running and insider trading in securities.

The changes have come in the wake of the Securities and Exchange Board (Sebi) passing two orders regarding front-running cases involving Axis AMC and Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC) recently.

The Sebi has amended mutual fund rules, which will come into force from November 1.

In a notification, Sebi said, "AMCs shall put in place an institutional mechanism, as may be specified by their boards, for identification and deterrence of potential market abuse including front-running and fraudulent transactions in securities". "An AMC shall establish, im-

See 20% revenue from AI in 3 yrs: Sonata Software

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

BENGALURU-based mid-tier IT company Sonata Software's Artificial Intelligence (AI) pipeline has increased from $60 million in the last quarter to $65 million in Q2FY25. In an interaction with TNIE, Jagannathan Chakravarthi, chief financial officer at Sonata Software, said the company's responsible-first AI, Harmoni.AI, has been well-received by its customers.

"Over the next two to three years, we expect to reach 20% of our revenue from AI," he said. "While large AI-based deals are yet to materialise, this quarter we have nine small- to medium-sized deals. We expect this trend to continue for another four to five quarters. During this time, we expect the technology to stabilise and customers to become more receptive to the benefits through its application," he said. The CFO added that the company's investments in AI will pay off in the near future. In the first quarter of this fiscal, the company's revenue grew by 1.3% and EBITDA improved by 140bps for international business.

The company's goal is to achieve $1.5 billion revenue by FY26. In the first quarter, its consolidated revenue stood at Rs 2,527 crore, a 15% increase sequentially. Its PAT for Q1 stood at Rs 105.6 crore, down 20% from Q4FY24. "While our Q1 FY25 EBITDA for international and domestic business improved, increase in forex loss and tax costs (change in SEZ regulations) and increase in interest cost on loan, has brought down our PAT," he explained.

Hiring across all experience levels witness positive growth in July

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

FOR the first time in 2024, hiring across all experience levels showed positive growth. The Naukri JobSpeak Index, an indicator of white-collar hiring activity, showed fresher hiring, which has been subdued for a while, saw an encouraging 7% YoY growth, in July.

With 28% and 22% growth, both finance and medical sectors, respectively, have contributed to the recovery in the fresher's job market. The Index registered a 12% YoY rise in July as against the same month last year and an 11% MoM sequential rise compared to June 2024. As per the report, the pharma/biotech sector recorded a 26% YoY increase, with Baroda (61%) and Hyderabad (39%) driving the surge. Hiring in the FMCG sector grew 26%, led by Bengaluru (52%) and Kolkata (43%). Real estate sector saw a 23% growth in hiring, largely influenced by Delhi-NCR (51%) and Hyderabad (28%). Pawan Goyal, chief business officer at Naukri, said, "The robust 12% growth in hiring activity is a much-awaited, encouraging sign for this financial year. This is the first month this year that we have seen positive growth, and the fact that it's secular, quote protection of the whistleblowers," the Sebi said.

Front-running is an illegal practice, wherein an entity engages in trading based on advanced information before it is made available to clients.

As per the latest notification, the chief executives or managing directors or such other person of equivalent or analogous rank and chief compliance officers of AMCs will be responsible and accountable for the implementation of such an institutional mechanism.

Ola Electric IPO fully subscribed on second day

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE ₹6,145 crore initial public offer of Ola Electric Mobility got fully subscribed on the second day of bidding on Monday, driven by demand from retail investors and non-institutional investors.

The initial share sale received bids for 49,43,63,610 shares compared to 46,51,59,451 shares on offer, translating into 1.06 times subscription, according to the NSE data.

The category for Retail Individual Investors (RIIs) fetched 2.87 times subscription while the quota for non-institutional investors got subscribed 1.11 times. The portion for Qualified Institutional Buyers (QIBs) received 40% subscription.

The IPO has a fresh issue of up to ₹5,500 crore and an OFS of up to 8,49,41,997 equity shares. The price band for the offer is ₹72-76 a share. It is open for subscription until August 6. Under the OFS, Ola Electric founder Bhavish Aggarwal is offloading 3.8 crore shares.

For Ola Electric, the IPO will provide the impetus to invest in enhancing cell manufacturing capacity and research and development on future technologies and products. As per its prospectus, Ola Electric Mobility (OEM) plans to utilise ₹1,227.6 crore of its ₹5,500 crore IPO on capacity expansion of its cell manufacturing plant to 6.4 GWh from 5 GWh. It is looking to use ₹1,600 crore on research and product development, ₹800 crore will be deployed to repay debts and ₹350 crore for organic growth initiatives.

HERE is a small centre in the brain that is called amygdala. It is tiny compared to other parts of the brain but has a very distinctive function. It controls emotions, anxiety and fear. When fear creeps in, past instances of similar shocks start flashing by. It may lead to the body being shut down and only those vital organs required to escape, like the heart and the limbs, kept functioning. In sport, the amygdala helps control aggression and the mind from going blank. High-performing athletes have an ability to make logical decisions during games, with muscle memory working in tandem. In badminton, when the shuttle travels at a speed of around 400km per hour, the decision-making needs to be faster. Reactions need to be sharper, movements quicker. But when doubt creeps in, old memories of turmoil lead to fear. For an athlete, that's where the contest is often lost.

On Monday, Lakshya Sen appeared to be going through one of those moments when the mind goes blank. He was trembling when he stepped out to meet the waiting media in the mixed zone, his voice shaking. Logical answers seemed to be deserting him. He was shaking his head, desperately trying not to break down. He was looking listless as if he had been hit by something dreadful. He had just lost the most important match of his career so far – the bronze medal play-off at the Olympics against Lee Zii Jia. It is not always that a player gets the chance to win an Olympic medal – the reward for years of sweat and toil.

Lakshya looked like he was yet to recover from the Viktor Axelsen shock in the semifinal. It must have been triggering when his opponent, Malaysia's Lee, started clawing back from 3-8 down in the second game after Lakshya took the first 21-13 without breaking a sweat. Lee had been wayward, his line judgement awful and some of his shots were drifting out. Lakshya, meanwhile, looked immaculate at the packed Aréna Porte de La Chapelle.

But that changed in the second game when Lee started to make a comeback. The delirious crowd kept egging the Malaysian and Lakshya suddenly seemed to have shut off. It was as if the amygdala had sensed fear. He erred, his shots that had a stamp of genius written all over it in the first game, suddenly seemed feeble.

LAKSHYA UNFULFILLED

The 22-year-old Indian shuttler loses the bronze medal play-off despite winning the first game against Malaysia's Lee

Perhaps the Axelsen game started flashing by when he could not finish the game after being 20-17 up. Eight points came on the trot for Lee, something that can be considered criminal in a high-stake game like this. The bruise in his hand was not as painful as the one in his head. After that, Lakshya never recovered. In the third game, Lakshya was drifting both mentally and physically. The game card 21-11 was the reflection of a meltdown.

Lakshya's comments too echoed the same line. "Once he started playing well, it was hard for me to find the answers in the rallies," he said. "At times, when the score is crucial, you have to be mentally strong. Credit to him, he played a solid game in the second."

Lee, on the other hand, spoke about how he switched his strategy. "I tried to turn the game into an attacking game,"

Lee said in the mixed zone.

India has three medals so far at this Olympics. Like boxing, badminton too has drawn a blank, the first complete misfire for the sport since Saina Nehwal won a bronze in 2012. It is disconcerting the way badminton has failed to deliver for India at this Olympics. The investment was huge. Like boxing, it was one of the best-funded sports. There were multiple sparring partners and coaches with each shuttler. Foreign coaches were made available, while the players were able to train abroad in the best of the facilities. Yet there is nothing to show on the biggest stage.

The Badminton Federation of India must reboot and restart. The Sports Authority of India (SAI) and the Target Olympics Podium Scheme (TOPS) too need to be held equally responsible. Athletes were being monitored by TOPS directly, sometimes even bypassing the federations. For certain players, there were different rules. There is no concept of a national camp, which used to be the norm earlier.

Time for hockey, Neeraj & Vinesh to apply balm after Monday's heartbreaks

INDRANEEL DAS @ Paris

AFTER a heartbreaking Monday, three big names (two individual and one team) will be in action on Tuesday – the men's hockey team (semifinal against Germany), Vinesh Phogat (in the women's 50kg in wrestling) and Neeraj Chopra (in the men's javelin). It's two three very different stars, too. Vinesh was the public face of the protest by Indian wrestlers in 2023. Lots of Indians have a soft spot for hockey. And, lastly, Chopra is leading the revolution in Indian athletics, the man who will be defending gold.

When the Indian XI walk out on to the Paris turf, it would be with a lot of hope. The inspirational display against Great Britain with 10 men should give them some belief. Harmanpreet Singh, who has led this team with under-stated efficiency at the back (while defending) and from the front (while scoring from penalty corners) will again be key, especially in the absence of the suspensions Amit Rohidas. Manpreet Singh's role while defending penalty corners will be even more outsized without Rohidas, one of the world's best first rushers. At the back, the inspirational PR Sreejesh will look to bring out his A game again. Forward Abhishek, who has come of age in this tournament, will also have to tuck away half-chances against the world champions.

India may have a positive recent memory against Germany – they beat them in the bronze-medal play-off in 2021 – but this is a different, more robust Germany.

Moving on from hockey to javelin, the mood in his camp is relaxed. The eagle will fly through the Paris sky in the qualification round on Tuesday afternoon. There is no other Indian athlete who's followed as closely as the javelin ace. The young man from Panipat has turned into a global icon. For India, he has already transcended sport. He is joy, celebration, victory all seamlessly morphed into hope for billion plus people. It will be at the cavernous Stade de France, the country's symbol of sporting supremacy. Understandably, the stadium is home for France football and rugby teams. On Tuesday, it will be the stage for India's only world and Olympic champion in athletics.

The stadium rises as a behemoth as one approaches the parapet leading up to the gates. The purple Mondo track stares at you. It is fast but may not aid javelin throwers as much as it would sprinters. When Neeraj walks on to the ground for the qualification, the entire nation would have their eyes transfixed on the TV screens. Neeraj is in Group B with 15 other throwers. The field for the World No 2 javelin thrower is quite simple. There are three names that would stand out. Former world champion Anderson Peters (season's best: 86.62m) is clubbed with him. Pakistan's Arshad Nadeem (84.21m) is also with him. His personal best is 90.18 at the Birmingham Commonwealth Games. Up and coming star, Max Dahning, too figures on the list and is the only one to cross the 90m mark this season.

Neeraj has not competed in a major competition since the Paavo Nurmi Games where he managed 85.97m. He skipped Ostrava Golden Spike before this as a precaution. He did not participate in the Paris Diamond in the first week of July because he felt it was not needed. Until now he had two big international competitions – Doha Diamond League and the above-mentioned Paavo Nurmi. Neeraj's nemesis, Jakub Vadlejch of Czechia, is in the Group A. Out of all the athletes, Vadlejch is the second best thrower in 2024.

Of course, as long as Neeraj throws 84m in the qualification, he will advance to the final. And considering he usually throws 84m at the first time of asking, it could be 'one and done'. The real event, though, will be the final on Thursday.

Steeplechaser Sable enters final

AGENCIES @ Paris

AVINASH Sable became the first Indian man to qualify for the 3000m steeplechase final after finishing fifth in his heat but quartermilier Kiran Pahal failed to book an automatic semifinal berth in women's 400m following a seventh place finish in her heat at the Paris Olympics on Monday.

Sable timed 8:15.43 minutes to finish fifth in the second heat to make it to the final round. As per rule, the top five athletes in each of the three heats qualify for the final.

However, Sable's heat timing was well below his best effort of 8:09.91 minutes, which he had clocked at the Paris Diamond League last month.

Players have to take responsibility: Padukone

INDRANEEL DAS @ Paris

INDIAN badminton has hit a blockade here at the Paris Games. No medals to show and the picture it presented was that of gloom and despair. As soon as Lakshya Sen floundered a game advantage, years of hard work came to naught. Firing a blank after winning medals at the last three Olympics will definitely not go down well. The members of the badminton revolution are slowly dying.

It was not a happy sight for the coach of the team Prakash Padukone either. He sounded morose during a brief interaction with the waiting media outside the Porte de la Chapelle arena.

Lakshya's loss has stirred his emotions. He didn't mince his words. He said that there is no point blaming the federations, foundations or the academies. "They can only do so much," he said. "We can provide everything we can. But ultimately players also have to take responsibility and go out there and deliver when it matters the most. Because it's not what we are expecting...they have beaten the same players in some other tournaments. So when it comes to Olympics, we are not able to. We need to introspect, the players also need to introspect."

Padukone also felt that the shuttlers have been backed in every possible way. "You cannot keep asking for more and more and more," he said. "You have to introspect, 'okay, am I doing enough?'" He felt that it could be that the players are not working hard enough. "Maybe whatever they are doing is not enough to get a medal at the Olympics." He felt the players also need to work and one cannot just expect only the coaches to work all the time.

Double Olympic medallist PV Sindhu lost her first knockout round match comprehensively. Favourites to win medals doubles pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty fell in the quarterfinals. Lakshya, who created history by becoming the first male player to reach the semifinals, was the lone spark. Padukone feels it's time to pay attention when players peak. "I think just maybe the players were peaking at that time (when they were winning). It's not that we could have easily got one bronze."

War minus the shooting: What Mahuchikh's gold & other Oly medals mean to Ukraine

INDRANEEL DAS @ Paris

FOR a few, the Olympics is beyond sport. It's an embodiment of resilience and hope. Ukraine's Yaroslava Mahuchikh's is one such story – a woman fighting a different battle to give a moment of peace to those in the frontlines. In her own words, Mahuchikh's gold in the women's high jump was "for the people of Ukraine".

Mahuchikh doesn't have a home. She lives a life of a vagabond shifting between countries – Portugal, Poland, Germany, Belgium, Estonia, USA – to train and compete. She was forced to flee her home in Dnipro, Ukraine, in 2022 when Russia invaded the country. Shelling could be heard when she left for her coach's house in the countryside. She could still hear those scary noises even now. She could see those faces of friends who are still fighting and those who are dead and gone.

Mahuchikh lowered her head and was trying to take a gulp, perhaps looking for words that could describe her feeling at the mixed zone on Sunday night. She was asked about friends and families fighting against Russian troops. The eyes were blinking and looked moist. Yet, she couldn't find words that would capture her emotions raging inside. Her life is riddled with bullets and bombs from the war in Ukraine. Yet she finds courage to soar and clear hurdle after hurdle with utmost ease. She has just won the gold at the Olympics, yet she could not stop speaking about her beloved country.

At 22, she holds a mature head on her lean shoulders, a trait imbibed through hardship and toil. Her tall frame makes for a natural high-jumper. The competition inside the mammoth Stade de France was another routine ritual. The world record-holder (2.10m) seemed cleared heights in her first attempts with minimum fuss. She beat Australia's Nicola Olyslagers on count-back after failing to clear 2.02m – the final height. Another Ukrainian, Iryna Gerashchenko, finished joint third along with Eleanor Patterson of Australia. Mahuchikh has been anointed the undisputed queen as she won the country's first individual gold. The two Ukrainians, with their flag for company, did a victory lap. The vociferous crowd acknowledged their feat with loud applause.

Noah Lyles, the latest showman of world athletics, won 100m gold, a medal he had been pursuing with heart and soul in a photo-finish only an Olympics could dream of. Yet, the story of Mahuchikh was the most profound. Just a day before, the sabre team led by legendary woman fencer, Olga Kharlan, won the country's first gold of the Games. There too the narrative revolved around war and catharsis. "I have friends and family fighting in the war and they are dying but they are very strong and this medal is for them because I can be here because they are in the frontline," she said.

The gold meant a world to her as much to the people of Ukraine. She gets messages of love from people in Ukraine and has turned into a symbol of hope, one who can give a moment of solace in troubled times. This will make them forget their fatigue and celebrate for a while. "Ukraine will win, of course, and I hope it will be very soon. And it is only for our people. We have very strong people. And of course we have got a lot of support from the world. Ukraine has a very brave military. Ukraine is the strongest nation in the world," she said. The superlatives only reinforce her love for the country she longs to go back to.

Sleeping between jumps

She likes to snuggle into the sleeping mat while competing. She uses it to lie down during waits that can last between 15 minutes to half an hour in her competition. For Mahuchikh, the medal was very important because she wanted to show the people that they can fight in the stadium and not just in the frontline.

Another athlete won them a third medal Mykhaylo Kokhan – a bronze in the men's hammer. He was even more succinct: "People back home are waiting for these medals." He is in the Ukrainian military and fortunately he has been given permission to compete.

USA's Noah Lyles won gold in the 100m with a time of 9.79s on Saturday | AFP/AP

NOAH LYLES, REMEMBER THE NAME

The fastest man on earth conquered the most glamorous event, 100m sprint, by the barest of margins on Sunday night, but he is not done with Paris Summer Games just yet

ALL the overhead shots and race replays tell the same story. Noah Lyles only led one time during his Olympic 100-metre sprint for the ages: at the finish line.

There's a good argument that the rest of his stay at these Paris Games won't be anywhere near as nip-and-tuck. With the Olympics still abuzz over his .005-second victory in the 100, Lyles didn't have much time to rest before moving to his next event. He is a heavy favorite in the 200 metres, his better race, and a race he has not lost since the Olympic final in Tokyo three years ago, where he finished third. Opening heats for the 200 were set for Monday night.

Lyles' willingness — make that, desire — to be the front man for a sport that yearns for new fans feels like a game-changer to Seb Coe, the World Athletics president who called Sunday's race "if not perfect, about as close to perfect as you can get. If I'm wearing a promoter's hat, then him winning last night was important, because he's now creating a narrative that's heading us back into Usain Bolt territory," Coe said. "That's hugely important."

Lyles not shy about what he wants from all this. In a typically candid and engaging post-race news conference, Lyles made no secret that he is in this to promote his sport, but also wants more. He has been a front man for the popular Netflix documentary "SPRINT," and has brought a sense of fashion back to the track, making "walk-ins" a thing and bedazzling his hair with white pearls on race day. Now, he's got a message for his shoe sponsor, Adidas. "I want my own shoe," he said. "I want my own trainer. I'm dead serious. I want a sneaker. There ain't no money in spikes, there's money in sneakers. I feel like how many medals we bring back and the notoriety we get, the fact that hasn't happened, that's crazy for me. I feel like that needs to happen."

The 100m was the biggest hurdle for Lyles to overcome. It is not his best race, and it's the one he took up shortly after Tokyo with the goal of becoming more than a mere sprinter, but a larger-than-life personality, both on and off the track. Lyles also figures to feature prominently in the men's 4x100 relay but that's anything but a gimme. Riddled with poor work with the baton, a lack of consistent training habits, a doping positive and the constant spectre of trying to beat Bolt, the U.S. has not won, and kept, a single Olympic medal in this event since 2004. It hasn't captured gold since 2000. The relay is a bigger threat to Lyles' quest to win three gold medals, the way Bolt did in all three of his appearances, than the 200 metres. Lyles figures to get his biggest challenge in the 200m from Kenny Bednarek, who finished ahead of Lyles in Tokyo and, more recently, pushed him at a fast Olympic trials that Lyles won in 19.53s.

Botswana's Letsile Tobogo, American Erryon Knighton and defending champion Andre De Grasse are also in the mix. One interesting wager would be whether Lyles has more of a chance of losing the race or lowering his American record of 19.31s. Bolt's world record is 19.19s. AP

T20 WC: ICC 'closely monitoring' political turmoil in Bangladesh

GOMESH S @Chennai

WITH Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina resigning following the ongoing turmoil in the country and fleeing the nation on Monday, there are questions over the upcoming Women's T20 World Cup which is scheduled to be played there in October.

Bangladesh is in the middle of a political crisis with students and people taking to the streets protesting against the government over a controversial job quota scheme. The scheme provided 30 percent reservations in civil services to families of veterans of the 1971 independence war.

Students took to the streets last month, protesting against the scheme and the situation got worse with more than a hundred people reportedly killed in the weeks since.

According to reports, Bangladesh Army Chief General Waqar-uz-Zaman said that an interim government is taking over the responsibilities after the PM resigned. With uncertainty over what lies ahead for the country and the government, questions arise whether the upcoming women's T20 World Cup, which is set to be played in Dhaka and Sylhet from October 3-20, will go ahead as planned.

The International Cricket Council, however, has not taken any decision yet and is closely monitoring the situation. "The ICC is closely monitoring developments in coordination with the Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB), their security agencies and our own independent security consultants. Our priority is the safety and well-being of all participants," an ICC spokesperson told this daily.

The issue was even discussed at length during the ICC Annual General Meeting that happened in Sri Lanka last month. The last women's game to be played in Bangladesh was when Australia toured the country in April and beat Bangladesh 3-0 in both ODIs and T20Is series. The upcoming World Cup will see ten teams compete for the trophy in two groups. India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, New Zealand and Australia are in Group A while England, South Africa, West Indies, Scotland and hosts Bangladesh are in the other group.

Five-Test series challenge will be different: McGrath

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

AUSTRALIAN pace legend Glenn McGrath who is in the city and, along with M Senthilnathan, will be training budding fast bowlers at the MRF Pace Foundation is pleased with the fact that India will play a five-Test series Down Under later this year. He insists that Australia will be keen to win the series this time around. He adds that India have the experience of performing well in Australia in the last couple of occasions, but since it is a five-Test series things may be different this time around.

"India have won the last two series. So it's now up to Australia now (turn to win). It used to be a place India would come to and Australia would dominate. Similar to when Australia came here, India would dominate. But I think India backed themselves. They found a way, and they've done well in the last few series. So yeah, I think it's good to see five tests, especially when everything's focused around T20 cricket these days," said McGrath who is in Chennai for his periodical coaching stint. "A five Test series is a little different. Then you have to sort of get through that, the workload, everything. So, yeah, it's going to be a good series. I think Australia will be keen to come out and play well, start well, because this is a series they should win, and they want to win, especially after losing the last two," he said.

ASHISH SRIVASTAVA @New Delhi

A SILENT epidemic is unfolding in the country as half of the population is facing a significantly higher risk of bone and joint issues. According to doctors, Indian women are experiencing alarming rates of bone and joint health issues, with some living in crippling conditions that significantly reduce their quality of life.

Based on the Global Burden of Disease Study, the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders increased dramatically from 1990 to 2019, with incident cases up nearly 60%. "This data indicates that these issues are very wide-ranging and becoming ever more concerning," said Dr Gurinder Bedi, principal director & HOD, orthopaedics, Fortis Hospital, Vasant Kunj (Delhi).

Factors affecting women

Emerging research suggests that the hidden crisis is fuelled by a blend of genetic predispositions, nutritional shortfall, sedentary lifestyle, hormonal shifts and other factors unique to the region.

"Changes in hormone levels, especially at the onset of menopause when estrogen levels drop significantly, make women vulnerable to bone loss and at greater risk of osteoporosis. Additionally, bone density is comparatively lower in women than in men, increasing pressure on the joints due to lifestyle actions such as wearing heels and carrying heavy bags. While these issues can affect women irrespective of their socioeconomic background, they might be more reported in urban areas due to increased awareness, better access to healthcare, and a higher likelihood of sedentary lifestyles associated with urban living," said Dr Debashish Chanda, lead consultant, orthopaedics, CK Birla Hospital, Gurugram.

Doctors said that the sedentary lifestyle and nutritional deficit arising out of the problems of bones and joints pre-dispose women to a multitude of other chronic diseases including higher rates of respiratory, cardiac, and gastrointestinal disorders.

Unlike their western counterparts, many Indian women consume diets that are chronically low in calcium and vitamin D, critical components for maintaining strong bones. Urbanisation and modern work environments with minimal physical movement exacerbate the complexity. The National Institute of Nutrition notes that inadequate nutrition

Symptoms of weak bones and joints

- Swelling and stiffness in the joints
- Recurrent falls and difficulty in walking
- Sense of instability and generalised aches and pains
- Frequent fractures in the spine, hip, wrist, and shoulders during adolescence and early adulthood—critical periods for bone development—leaves many women vulnerable to bone issues later in life.

"The developmental constraints begin as early as childhood when concerns for security restrict girls' involvement in sports or physical activities. Even schools do not adequately promote physical activity, and the sports taught to girls typically involve very low levels of strenuous exercise. Menstrual cycle further limits their physical activities for a few days each month, exacerbating the issue," said Dr Bedi.

Prevention and treatment

According to Dr Bedi, the problem of low bone and joint health among women calls for a holistic approach to initiate early interventions with medically managed lifestyles.

"It is essential to make proper nutrition, regular exercise, and good healthcare available for women to significantly improve their quality of life. Public awareness campaigns can play an important role in making women aware of the importance of bone health and what they can do to maintain it," he said.

PULSE OF THE MATTER

JOSE discovered that his hoarseness was not due to a cold or flu. Though he quit cigarette smoking, he still smoked three to four cigars a week. When the hoarseness persisted for more than a month, he visited an otolaryngologist. During an endoscopy, the doctor noticed white spots on his left vocal cord and expressed suspicion that it could be cancer and a confirmatory biopsy was required. More than a week later, he was diagnosed with stage I squamous cell carcinoma.

Jose's story is but one among several that prove that seemingly harmless symptoms can indicate serious conditions like head and neck cancer. Ignoring such symptoms may lead to a late diagnosis with advanced cancer; and as a result, the five-year survival rate of such advanced cancers remains extremely poor due to late diagnosis, recurrence metastasis, resistance to therapies, and loss of life. Thus, the importance of early diagnosis cannot be overemphasised, while the cancer is still in a curable stage.

Understanding the symptoms

Head and neck cancer refers to a set of heterogeneous cancers that develop in the (squamous cells) surface lining of the tissues in the head and neck (e.g. nasal cavity, sinuses, nasopharynx, lips, oral cavity, hypopharynx, (throat) oropharynx, larynx (voice box) salivary glands, and thyroid gland).

Several risk factors contribute to the development of head and neck cancer. These include tobacco use in any form (smoking or chewing), alcohol consumption, poor oral hygiene, advancing age, exposure to ultraviolet light, excessive intake of salt-cured fish and meat, and insufficient consumption of fruits and vegetables. A notable risk factor is infection with human papillomavirus (HPV), particularly the HPV16 and HPV18 strains. Interestingly, patients with HPV-related oropharynx cancers tend to have a better prognosis and respond more favorably to treatment, often requiring less intensive therapy, compared to their tobacco-induced counterparts.

Symptoms of head and neck cancer can vary widely but commonly include mouth ulcers, sore throat, blood in the phlegm, hoarseness of voice, weight loss, and difficulty swallowing or a lump in the neck. A frequently overlooked symptom is a persistent sore throat, often mistaken for a common cold or flu. If a sore throat does not respond to conventional treatments and persists over an extended period, particularly when accompanied by difficulty swallowing, hoarseness, or unexplained weight loss, it may signal a more serious condition such as an underlying cancer.

Treatment modalities

Over the years, the treatment of head and neck cancer has evolved significantly, often involving multiple modalities, resulting in becoming more precise and less prone to complications or sequelae of treatment.

The primary treatment modalities include surgery, radiotherapy, or systemic therapy, which may include chemotherapy, targeted therapies or immunotherapy. Each of these treatment modalities have a specific role and indications, offering unique advantages.

One in every 5 Indians has hearing loss

In 99% of children who are congenitally deaf, the inner ear or cochlear hair cells responsible for hearing are not developed. A cochlear implant bypasses the hair cells and directly stimulates the nerve endings. So, the interrupted circuit is restored. The remaining 1% are born without the inner ear, and here we can't put a cochlear implant. A technology has been developed in which there is a possibility of putting a chip in the brainstem where there is a small auditory area. In Chennai, close to 100 brainstem implants have been done in children.

Another technology is hypoglossal nerve stimulator, an implant to treat sleep apnea. The implant can stimulate a nerve under the tongue to prevent the tongue from blocking the airway. The use of molecular biology is another advancement to diagnose cancer and develop agents and drugs that specifically target cancer cells. Robotic surgery is another development used for cancer surgeries.

What is the biggest challenge in ENT?

Deafness is one of the biggest challenges as one in every five Indians has some amount of hearing loss. Of this, one out of seven has significant hearing loss, which interferes with their communication. It is the biggest area where technology has become a game changer. Increasing noise pollution is a significant factor in hearing loss. Studies pointed out that tribal living in the forest have better hearing compared to the urban population.

How prevalent is congenital deafness?

Deafness is the most common congenital anomaly found in children at birth. Tamil Nadu has six times the prevalence of profound deafness because of consanguineous marriage.

INTERVIEW
DR MOHAN KAMESWARAN

TECHNOLOGY has advanced so much that doctors nowadays consider replacing organs rather than repairing the damage. This is a fundamental shift owing to technology at our disposal, says Dr Mohan Kameswaran, MD, Madras ENT Research Foundation, Chennai. In an interview with Sinduja Jane, he talks about the advancements in treatment of ENT problems and factors that contribute to hearing loss. Edited excerpts:

What are the latest advancements and innovations in the ENT field?

Neural implants—implants that interact with the brain—are the latest technology adapted by the ENT specialty. Auditory brainstem implants (ABI) are a good example of neural implants. In this, a central neural auditory prosthesis is surgically implanted to treat profound hearing loss due to a non-functioning cochlea, especially among children.

Beyond his iconic silver screen roles, veteran actor M Nassar reveals a multifaceted personality. In conversation with CE, he speaks about his enduring love for literature and acting

BEYOND THE CHARACTERS

MONIKA MONALISA

VETERAN actor M Nassar does not consider himself a poet, but at the recent Bengaluru Poetry Festival, when prompted with a few words, he nevertheless crafted beautiful poetry, leaving the audience in awe. His love for literature goes back a long way and has significantly honed his craft as an actor over the years. "I come from a small village and later moved to Chennai in my 20s. I was introduced to Tamil literature then. As an actor, it helped me a lot because I came across so many characters and began to have a deeper understanding of my community, their pleasures, and their pains. It helps in my creative process," explains the veteran of over four decades.

His first preference has always been regional literature. "I try to read regional books wherever I go. For example, I have read some of the books of Chandrashekhara Kambara. I really enjoyed Singareva Matu Aramane. It's a wonderful story. I wanted to turn it into a film but realised there was already one in Kannada. Similarly, when I travel to Andhra Pradesh, I try to read Telugu writers," says Nassar.

Nassar has portrayed many iconic roles on screen. While one can argue that his role in Mani Ratnam's Bombay and SS Rajamouli's Baahubali remain unforgettable, his performance in Nayakan is still regarded as iconic. Nassar, however, believes the secret behind making anything look seamless has less to do with talent and more with practice.

"It's a very long process. Whatever I am applauded for today, it's because of proper training. Youngsters think it's some talent, but I don't believe that. Whatever I am today is because of what I learned from my gurus," says the 66-year-old. "When I chose to be an actor, I thought it would be just another job that would solve all my money problems. But later, when I went to a film school, I realised it was more than I thought. Instead of believing in talent, you have to be knowledgeable."

Nassar offers some insightful pointers that he believes every actor should have in their arsenal. The first is political awareness. "That's how I was trained because you are going to play a role that is experiencing various things, whether in India, Bangladesh, or anywhere else in the world," says Nassar, who was last seen in the web series Killer Soup. He further adds, "The other thing is to know your own craft thoroughly. When a person finishes their education, it does not stop there. The real education begins afterwards. As an actor, you have to constantly upgrade yourself with new techniques and technology. It's crucial to approach this profession like any other job. You cannot just treat it as a creative pursuit and leave it at that. You have to take responsibility."

As an actor, one of his exercises is watching new films. The last one he watched was Maharaja, starring Vijay Sethupathi and Anurag Kashyap. "It is a very intelligent film. Of course, there are a few very violent scenes. Recently, I also watched Kingdom of the Planet of the Apes. I admired Noa's performance. I have a profound appreciation for Gollum in The Lord of the Rings," he signs off.

An American Dream

LA-based film editor Varun Vishwanath on being nominated for the 76th Emmy Awards for his work on the TV series Reservation Dogs, his Bengaluru days, and more

MONIKA MONALISA

IT'S been two weeks since film and TV editor Varun Vishwanath found out that he, along with his co-editor Patrick Tuck, has been nominated for the Best Editor category at the Emmy Awards for the TV series Reservation Dogs. The 41-year-old 'Bengaluru Boy' says he still pinches himself to believe the news.

"It was one of those rough mornings, and my wife and I were rushing to drop our three-year-old off at preschool. On our way back, my co-editor, Patrick, called me. We weren't working on anything together at that time, so I was very surprised he was calling. Then he said, 'We got nominated.' I sort of expected that the series would be nominated for Best Comedy Series as it was doing pretty well. But Patrick immediately corrected me. 'No, no, you and I. We got nominated for best editing.' I was in the middle of the road, driving, and I was just shocked. I just stopped the car. This is crazy," recalls Vishwanath.

Despite being comfortably settled in Los Angeles, Vishwanath, who attended Sri Aurobindo Memorial School and finished high school at Christ University, cannot help but look back at his Bengaluru days with gratitude. "From doing a one-act play at Ravindra Kalakshetra in the mid-90s, which was my first stage entertainment experience, to watching cable TV with my grandmother when it was first introduced, this news has pushed me to reflect on my decades long journey. This has been such a big part of my life for so long," says Vishwanath. He further adds, "When you are in a different country, you're hustling in a different way. You have immigration-related things, whether you fit in or not, whether people accept you or not. This has forced me to look at things in all possible ways."

From childhood, Vishwanath always had an inkling towards theatre or entertainment. Even after college, while working regular corporate jobs, he remained involved with a theatre group, though it became harder to commit due to time constraints. His first set of encouragement to stay in touch with his passion came in 2006 when some of the one-minute short films that he had edited were sent to film competitions. Anurag Kashyap, one of the judges, took note of his work and texted his director. During the 2008 financial crisis, Vishwanath decided to leave his cushy job and start working towards being in films.

After a television stint in Singapore, Vishwanath applied to many film schools, finally getting a spot in the American Film Institute's (AFI) editing programme. "I also considered returning to India and figuring out if I could have a future there. But I think at that point in time, in 2009-2010, the kind of interesting, cool films that people are making now weren't quite there. So, I was like, I'm going to try my shot at going to the 'motherhood'. Let's go to Hollywood and see if my skills match up," says Vishwanath, who has been in this profession since 2010.

Having an Emmy nomination for Reservation Dogs is extra special for Vishwanath since the series speaks about a sense of belonging. Being a 'brown bearded guy who edits film in Hollywood,' he could see the personal connection in his work. "My dad's side of the family is Pallakad Iyer, my mom is from Chennai and I grew up in Bengaluru. I kind of had my identity crisis right from the beginning. I do ponder on the idea of what a home feels like. I tried to bring those emotions into the show," says Vishwanath. The Emmys will be held and will be broadcast across the world on September 15.

Showcasing over 120 original works, Abu's World, a major ongoing retrospective of the iconic cartoonist Abu Abraham - acclaimed for his political cartoons in India as well as England - marks his birth centenary

POOJA DAS

A cartoon is a versatile tool - it can distil complex ideas, offer sharp satire on political issues, and speak directly to the masses while making a bold statement. Yet, only a select few have truly mastered the art of carving out a unique voice, especially when it comes to India's complex and ever-changing political landscape. Among them is Abu Abraham, who stands out for his distinct style and incisive commentary in the world of political cartoons.

To celebrate Abraham's centenary year, the artist's daughters Ayisha Abraham and Janaki Abraham are hosting a retrospective of his original works with Abu's World, at the Indian Cartoon Gallery. "In planning this exhibition, I started going through files, many of which had not been opened before. In earlier exhibitions, we mostly showed iconic drawings that are well-known to the public, like censored drawings from the Emergency period. This time, we were able to find unseen drawings that reflect the detail of Indian politics through the decades. For example, in 1969, the Congress Party split, and we selected drawings that chronicle the events of that year. The cartoons are able to tell a story about a political past that many people may not remember.

Sketching History

Some of the cartoons are lesser-known and of events that may have faded in public memory, and yet they played a crucial role in shaping current affairs; politically and socially," shares Ayisha.

Abraham, who began drawing cartoons at the tender age of three, went on to create an enduring legacy from Kerala to London and back to India, working for multiple publications. The ongoing exhibition showcases 120 original works, offering a deep dive into the artist's storied career. "We explored different lenses through which to view his work. First, we looked at his early work to represent the evolution of his style, and then the work once he returned to India, where he began to develop a unique style. This coincided with the Indira Gandhi's era, from 1969 to the time she lost the election in 1977, a crucial time in India's history where you can see how his response to politics, and drawing are evolving in tandem with the changing times and his own personal growth," she says. "While curating, we were also coming up to a general election, so we have included drawings that comment on the democratic processes, which was being debated widely."

Abu's World also includes Abraham's response to attending the Eichmann trials in Jerusalem in 1961 and visiting the Palestinian camps in 1967. Ayisha highlights, "Curating this exhibition meant looking for pieces that still resonate today like the ongoing Israel-Palestine conflict. Events that echo the present condition of the nation and the world, as well, because the past has not really resolved itself. The exhibition also explores war and peace, federalism, and regional tensions, all of which remain relevant today. You can see how his work unfortunately reflects how a lot of things in the world have not changed at all."

Additionally, the retrospective will feature a screening of Abu's animated film, No Arks, which won a British Film Institute Special Award in 1970 and follows the traditional story of Noah's Ark with a twist where Noah's Ark is not the only Ark to survive. The film will be shown at the Bangalore International Centre on August 23, along with another set of Abraham's original works.

(Abu's World will be open till August 31 at the Indian Cartoon Gallery, Midford House, Off MG Road)

I was educated in a vernacular medium, and in my current job, effective English communication is crucial. While I write and understand well, I struggle with speaking. Online videos haven't helped either. I want to speak English fluently. Any tips?

I faced a similar problem. I spoke my mother tongue, Konkani, and English well, but was tongue-tied with other languages like Tamil, Malayalam, Hindi, and Kannada, which I now speak fluently. Here's what helped me: I spoke the language I wanted to learn with anyone I could, making many mistakes and struggling badly to find the right words. I asked people to be patient with me. Watching movies in that language and listening to the radio helped immensely. I repeated what I heard and didn't aim for perfection or fear being laughed at, which sometimes happened. I persisted with determination, using every opportunity I got, and eventually it became easier. Since you already understand and write English well, you have a head start. Speak English whenever you can, to whomever you can. If possible, hire a tutor. The only way to improve in a language is to speak it constantly, immerse yourself in it, and keep practising. With persistent effort, you will be able to talk fluently.

USTRASANA VARIATION 1 (CAMEL POSE VARIATION 1)

This is a simple backbend variation of Camel Pose, which, with adequate focus and awareness at the chest, ensures the efficient functioning of the intercostal muscles. This supports the lungs to the fullest, which further helps with the preparation for pranayama practices. It strengthens the thighs and lower back, develops core strength, and increases stability in the knees, arms, and shoulders. This also stimulates the Anahata and Throat Chakras.

STEPS

- Get into a kneeling position, maintaining a hip-width gap between the knees.
- Stand tall on your knees, with your spine stretched. Keep your hands on the sides of your body.
- Ensure that your knees and ankles are kept in a straight line.
- Loop your shoulders back to place your hands on your lower back with your fingers pointing down and your elbows pointing back.
- Stay here for a few breaths. Try to feel an upward current of energy through the front part of your body.
- Inhale, and lift your upper body.
- Ensure that students are not clinching or tucking.
- Engage your core, bring your elbows together, and draw your shoulder blades while lifting your chin upwards.
- Gently arch your back into a backbend with your shoulder blades drawing in together, keeping the neck stretched.
- Remain here for six breaths.
- Gaze at the tip of your nose.
- Finally, tuck your chin, inhale, and release the backbend.
- Return to an upright kneeling pose.
- Slowly come down to Vajrasana, letting the blood restore.
- With a deep exhale, relax in Balasana.

BENEFITS

- Stretches and strengthens the quadriceps and knees.
- Strengthens the chest and upper back.
- Improves the flexibility and mobility of the spine and strengthens the knees and ankles.
- Helps prepare the body for advanced kneeling poses like Pigeon Pose B or Sage Hahusha Pose.
- Improves the functioning of the lungs.
- Helps relieve respiratory conditions such as asthma, bronchitis, or colds and allergies.
- Helps develop body-breath connection to do advanced backbends while in kneeling positions.
- Helps loosen up the tension in the back, neck, shoulders, and legs.
- Relieves the pain and tiredness that arises from sitting in one place for too long.
- Lengthens the psoas and front neck, opens the chest, engages the gluteus, and helps keep the shoulders rolled back.
- Stretches the frontal body.
- Reduces the tightness and stress in the muscles and joints involved.
- Improves the flow of prana (energy).
- Improves the flow of oxygenated blood throughout the body.
- Stimulates the Anahata Chakra and balances the Throat Chakra.
- Stimulates the internal organs, improving digestion.
- This pose can be practiced as a cool-down practice, especially in yoga done by sportspeople.

LIMITATIONS

- Students who have injuries to their knees, lower back, hips, ribcage, spine, neck, or shoulders, or have undergone any recent abdominal surgery, avoid this pose.
- If suffering from conditions like headaches, high blood pressure, knee arthritis, severe lower back pain or weak back, eye or ear infection, neck or shoulder pain, vertigo, dizziness, or any condition disturbing the energy, have weak musculature or any physical condition that may impact breathing, avoid this pose.
- If students have weak knees or any knee pain, they can use a folded mat or blanket under the knee.

RESHMI CHAKRAVORTY

WIT, charm, and relatability are the words often synonymous with Kenny Sebastian, one of the brightest stars in the Indian comedy scene. His journey from a young boy in Bengaluru to a household name across the country is known to all. In a conversation with CE, Sebastian speaks about his acclaimed standup special Professor of Tomfoolery Vol. II, his career in comedy and more. Excerpts.

Tell us about Professor of Tomfoolery Vol. II

It's a show about family, it's the most honest and anecdotal show I've done so far. A lot of my audience is also pretty surprised about how much I'm sharing hard-core truth bombs and it's a show that's been very fulfilling because when I look at the audience I have people coming with their whole families and it's a story about our communication between each other. Jokes are all light-hearted but the topics are all hard-hitting relatable ones. Interestingly, I've just done a small revision towards the end where we have two songs.

You have been doing comedy for the last 14 years. How has your journey been?

I keep telling people that the one constant support we've had from day one has been the audience. The only reason that stand-up comedy in India exists is because of the love we get from the audience. Nobody supports comedy. A lot of the platforms don't, the infrastructure doesn't. This shouldn't exist actually, but we do due to audience. During the pandemic, technically it should have died, though it took about two to three years to recover, it has come back stronger:

Do you have any defining moments in your career as a comedian?

The first time my videos went viral in 2014 was defining. I went from doing shows at small bars where 20 people are eating their food or drinking to solo shows, it was surreal. I constantly get humbled as you pay money to sit and listen to somebody tell jokes.

What inspired you to be a stand-up comic?

I was always a freelancer, so I was a corporate video editor and I shot corporate films for companies in Bengaluru. It wasn't a conscious choice that oh, I'm going to be a stand-up comic as it wasn't a career back then. For me, it was just like, oh, I'm making the same amount doing comedy as I'm making corporate videos. So, which is more fulfilling, definitely doing stand-up comedy. Because both were very uncertain, in both, I didn't know when my paycheck would come, I decided that I might as well do something that brings me so much joy.

Future plans?

Once this tour is done, the next special is coming up which will be a music special. My podcast is also going on and I've written two songs and I have to write about 18 more songs. It's a lot of work ahead. So I'm just focused on that. Hopefully if platforms are getting back into comedy, you will see me doing more comedy. I think people are just very scared about censorship and that's why YouTube is really thriving as it has the least censorship.

If you ask people who have been in long and healthy relationships what helped them keep their relationships ongoing, safe, and healthy, chances are they will say their values matched. They might mention other factors like shared interests, a similar sense of humour, a shared sense of purpose, or even sustained attraction to each other. However, the idea of matching values is likely to be among the top reasons why a relationship works well.

When a couple shares the same values, it is easy to see why they get along very well. However, we don't necessarily need perfectly matching values. More important than matching values is the ability of the people in the relationship to share where their values differ, understand more about each other through these differences, and feel more connected and closer without – this is the important bit – any judgment of each other's value system as superior or inferior.

Take, for example, a situation where one partner highly values kindness and is willing to lie a little to be kind, while the other values honour and honesty, telling things exactly as they see them, without necessarily using hurtful words but not mincing words either. The values each holds up might seem different and, in certain contexts, might even feel opposed to each other. However, that doesn't make one value better than the other. Both kindness and honesty are admirable values in and of themselves. In a relationship where partners differ in this way, if each can appreciate the other for what they value without judging them, the couple will likely gain a deeper understanding of each other and learn that much more about one another.

To reach a place where differences in values are not seen as a problematic schism but as an interesting phenomenon, there needs to be a warm and affectionate curiosity to learn more about each other. Why does this person value kindness so much? What happened in their life that makes them value kindness more than honesty? How are they able to stay strong even when so clearly different from yourself? What do they gain by upholding the values they hold dear?

When we can be curious about these things and be partners in addressing these differences, we might find that it deepens our love for each other. Even when it feels 'wrong', this kind of loving curiosity can help us discover where and why we might have developed unhealthy ways of relating and growing.

That, ultimately, is the value of a long and healthy relationship – a greater and more loving understanding of ourselves.

'I'M FORTUNATE THAT SONGS FROM MY FILMS RESONATE WITH AUDIENCES'

...says Golden Star Ganesh, as most of his tracks have become chartbusters, with the latest being the Krishnam Pranaya Sakhi songs

A SHARADHAA

GANESH'S films have always been popular for their memorable music with various tracks, especially the romantic numbers in films such as Chellata, Mungaru Male, Gaalipata, Cheluvina Chittara, and Chamak, to name a few. The latest addition to this list is the music album from Krishnam Pranaya Sakhi, which has become a hit. The film features seven songs composed by Arjun Janya, with four tracks, including the standout 'Dwapara', trending strongly. To celebrate this success, the popular music label Anand Audio honoured the lyricists, singers such as Chandan Shetty and Jaskaran Singh, and music director Arjun Janya. The romantic family drama, directed by Srinivas Raju and produced by Prashanth G Rudrappa, is set to hit theatres on August 15. In a conversation with CE, Ganesh discussed the secret to the musical success of his films: "Is it the music director's touch or something more? I believe it's ultimately a blessing.

Whether it's a film or song, it requires some extra energy. While some consider the songs as positive vibes, I view them as a blessing. I would like to credit everyone involved in creating the songs—from the music directors and choreographers to the costume designers, makeup artists, and, of course, the director and the technical team—who have always managed to bring together a hit song for me," he says. He goes on to add, "I am fortunate to get some fantastic tracks. Creating a buzz through songs happens on its own. We can't force listeners or order them to listen to our tracks. If they like them, they don't mind putting them on repeat mode," Ganesh mentions, noting the importance of music in his career and crediting Anand Audio for their support.

Arjun Janya also attributes a music album's success to the ample time at hand to create the songs for the music company, and he credits the makers for believing in his compositions, resulting in successful melodies. Produced under the Trishul Entertainment banner, the film's cast includes Malavika Nair and Sharan Shetty as the female leads, alongside veteran actors Srinivasa Murthy, Sadhu Kokila, Rangayana Raghu, Shivadwaj, and Giri in pivotal roles.

Naveen Shankar set to lead a boxing-themed film directed by Vikas Pushpagiri

The film, produced by Mystic Art Studios, will also feature Sharanya Shetty sharing the screen with the lead actor for the first time

Sharanya Shetty

CE FEATURES

NAVEEN SHANKAR, who shot to fame with his debut in the sci-fi thriller Gulfoo, recently appeared in films such as Hondisi Bareyiri and Prashanth Neel's Salaar: Part 1 - Ceasefire in pivotal roles. The actor has reportedly wrapped up shooting for the films Moolataha Nammavare and Nodidavaru Enanthare, which are yet to be released. Meanwhile, CE has learned that Naveen Shankar, who has been careful about his project selection, has given a green light for his next, likely to be directed by Vikas Pushpagiri. The latter known for directing films like Neuron and Scam 1770, is helming his third project, based on a story by Shankar Raman and produced by Mystic Art Studios. The film, described as a boxer-based drama, is set to reveal more details during its muhurath, scheduled for later this month. The team has finalised Sharanya Shetty as the female lead. Sharanya, who will soon be seen in the film Krishnam Pranaya Sakhi alongside Ganesh, will share screenspace with Naveen Shankar for the first time. Additionally, Sharanya has signed two more projects with the same production house, marking her debut in Telugu cinema, likely to commence next year.

Hari Gowra, known for his compositions in films like Hanu-Man, Charminar, and the upcoming Father starring Krishna, joins the project as the music composer.

Alien: Romulus gets an Indian release date

CE FEATURES

THE makers of director Fede Alvarez's upcoming sci-fi film Alien: Romulus have announced the film's release date in India. The film will make its debut in Indian theatres on August 23, a week after its US premiere. The film stars Cailee Spaeny, David Jonsson, Archie Renaux, Isabela Merced, Spike Fearn, and Aileen Wu in pivotal roles.

Alien: Romulus is produced by Ridley Scott and Michael A Pruss under their Scott Free Productions banner, alongside Walter Hill of Brandywine Productions. The film, set between the events of Alien (1979) and Aliens (1986), follows a group of young space colonisers as they come face-to-face with the most terrifying life form in the universe while scavenging the deep ends of a derelict space station.

Alien: Romulus has cinematography by Galo Olivares, editing by Jake Roberts, production design by Naaman Marshall, and music by Benjamin Wallfisch.

It will be released by 20th Century Studios India in English, Hindi, Tamil, and Telugu on August 23.

Ananya Panday and Vihaan-starrer CTRL release date out

CE FEATURES

THE release date of the Ananya Panday and Vihaan Samat-starrer, a thriller titled CTRL, was unveiled on Monday. The film, directed by Vikramaditya Motwane, is scheduled to premiere on Netflix on October 4.

The makers also released an announcement video of the film that shows a set of Ananya's pictures. "You think you are in control of your life, joy, happiness?" reads the text in the video. As pictures of Ananya crumble in pixels, the text reads, "Think again."

Ananya Panday was last seen in a cameo role in the Vicky Kaushal-Triptii Dimri starrer Bad Newz. She also has Shankara, alongside Akshay Kumar and R Madhavan, in the pipeline. On the other hand, Vihaan Samat is known for the Netflix shows Mismatched as well as Eternally Confused and Eager for Love. Vihaan's upcoming projects include the Prime Video show Call Me Bae, also starring Ananya.
